

No Action In Steel Strike; Tieup Costs 40 Million Per Day

By JOHN MOODY
PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Philip Murray, president of the striking CIO United Steelworkers, waited today for the White House or industry to take some step toward breaking the paralyzing 46-day-old dispute. There has been no visible effort of either side to reach a settlement in the economy-strangling strike since Monday when negotiations arranged by presidential assistant John R. Steelman ended in deadlock.

Peace Rumors Denied
A maze of rumors sprang up around the country about possible secret settlement of the strike that has idled more than a million and one-half workers, but Murray brushed them all aside with: "They are without foundation," or "that simply isn't so."

Iron Age magazine, a trade journal, said Murray's rejection of the industry's compromise offer at the last peace talks did not meet with approval of his union lieutenants. But union officials said Iron Age's report is without foundation.

The issue of a union shop, which would require all workers to join the union, or some modified form of it appeared to be the big stumbling block in the path of a settlement.

Murray wants compulsory membership, but the industry is holding out for union membership on a voluntary basis only.

Murray said he has contacted no one in government or industry in the past 24 hours, adding: "The situation remains as it has been. I know of no plans for any further negotiating sessions."

Longest In History
Murray has called the Steelworkers 170-man wage policy committee to meet in Pittsburgh Monday. That committee makes all major union decisions.

Murray said he will report on the strike and ask the group to map a course of future action.

Meanwhile the longest strike in steel history drifts along in its seventh week. It is costing the nation about 40 million dollars a day in lost wages and steel production alone.

In addition to the idle steelworkers there are nearly a million breadwinners on furlough from industries that depend on steel for raw material.

The best available estimates by observers are that steelworkers have lost something like 37 million dollars a day in wages since the strike started June 2. Workers in allied industries have lost an estimated 35 million dollars a day in wages.

Steel tonnage lost through the strike is valued at $1,650,000,000.

President Gets Medical Tests, Keeps Working

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman spent a "very good night" at the Walter Reed Hospital, aides said today. They reported that Truman expects to get back to the White House by Saturday.

The 68-year-old President entered the hospital yesterday, marking the first time he was hospitalized since he took office more than seven years ago. He is undergoing a series of tests as a result of a mild virus infection with which he was afflicted Sunday.

First Lady Returns
Joseph Short, the President's press secretary, said Truman is keeping busy going over the great number of bills passed in the closing days of Congress and still requiring his signature. He has about 50 bills to go.

Mrs. Truman came home by train today from Independence, Mo., arriving at 9:44 a. m. EST. She drove directly to the hospital, where her husband occupies the presidential suite.

The First Lady, who had spent 10 days in Independence with her ailing mother, declined to discuss the President's health, but allowed photographs to be taken. She was dressed in a black suit and a white hat.

Mrs. Fred Wallace, a sister-in-law, said in Independence "The family is not alarmed over his (Truman's) condition" and that Mrs. Truman was returning "because the family thought Harry might be lonesome."

Signs 37 Bills
It was the 68-year-old President's first hospitalization since he entered the White House April 12, 1945.

Short said that although Truman had almost completely recovered from the infection which first developed Sunday, his doctor, Maj. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, ordered him to the hospital which has facilities for a complete

Don't Betray Fair Deal, Truman Tells Democrats

SEEKS ELECTION — Blind since the age of 17, Anita Blair of El Paso, Texas, told New York newsmen she hopes to be the first sightless woman elected to Congress. At present, a candidate for the Texas State Legislature in July primaries, Miss Blair is visiting New York with her 14-year-old seeing-eye dog, Fawn.

Party Nominee To Be Labeled As Progressive

By JACK BELL
CHICAGO—(AP)—President Truman's fighting declaration against any convention "betrayal" of his political creed paced a new trend among Democratic presidential aspirants today.

Without any apparent advance knowledge of Truman's blunt demand for endorsement of his "Fair Deal" program, at least two candidates moved to put themselves in a position—if they get the nomination—to lead a fight against what they called "Republican reaction."

Bids For Labor Vote
Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia, plagued by his designation as the anti-Truman candidate of the South, bid for northern labor and "Fair Deal" support with a denunciation of the Taft-Hartley law he helped enact.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, self-titled peoples' choice for the nomination, called for a fight on what he labeled "Republican isolationism and reaction."

Their declarations seemed to indicate a developing pattern of thinking among the presidential hopefuls that the Republicans' choice of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will force the Democrats to pick a nominee who can call himself a progressive.

Kefauver In Lead
In words that paralleled Truman's official message to the convention delegates, Kefauver told a news conference yesterday: "The Democratic party must continue to be the liberal, progressive party of the nation. We cannot retreat on either foreign policy or in the domestic field."

Kefauver leads in the Associated Press delegate tabulation with 256 votes to 120½ for Russell, based on pledges of support and known first ballot preferences. Mutual security director Averell Harriman, an all-out supporter of Truman policies, is running third with 112 votes. It takes 616 to win.

Truman said in his message, to be printed in the official convention program handed to every one of the 1,576 delegates, that no other

Politics Speeds Up For Michigan Primary Aug. 5

(By The Associated Press)
With the Aug. 5th primary less than three weeks in the offing, Republican candidates for nomination as governor and U. S. Senator stepped up the tempo of their campaigns today.

Virtually all the activity was on the Republican side. Gov. G. Mennen Williams is unopposed for the Democratic renomination and Sen. Blair Moody seemed confident of victory in the Democratic primary.

In campaign speeches last night, Republican candidates for the senatorial nomination hammered at foreign policy and domestic issues.

Ore Loss Serious
Auditor General John B. Martin Jr., spoke at a rally in Grand Rapids in behalf of his senatorial candidacy. He declared that Congress should reconvene and "either by alteration of the laws or direct pressure on the president" force the issue on the steel strike.

Martin pointed to the limited shipping time on the Great Lakes. He declared the steel strike must be ended "before it is too late to make up for lost time and lost ore." He cited figures that 13 million tons of ore which would have been shipped have been lost by the strike.

Urging use of the Taft-Hartley labor relations law, Martin said: "While representatives of other states such as Alabama can be forgiven for their ignorance of the shipping season on the Great Lakes there is no excuse for ignorance among senators and representatives from the middle west."

Hottest Test Pilot Tells Of Zooming 1238 Miles An Hour

By BILL BECKER
LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The hottest plane in the free world, the D-558-2 skyrocket, holds a new speed record of 1,238 miles an hour, says the Navy.

And the hottest test pilot, Landy Bill Bridgeman, says zooming at that speed is "no different than flying 750 miles per hour."

The real kick comes, Bridgeman said in an exclusive interview last night, when the rocket-propelled Hummingbird runs out of power at a record altitude of 79,494 feet and swoops down 15 miles for a deadstick landing on the desert.

Lots of Blue Sky
Both the speed and altitude marks were confirmed here by Secretary of the Navy Dan A. Kimball. Bridgeman flew the Douglas-built rocket ship to unprecedented heights last August 7 and set the speed record August 15 in tests at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

"The Navy previously had admitted only that the research plane had 'climbed at 1,000 miles an hour,'"

In all, Bridgeman made six rocket flights last summer after the skyrocket was launched at 35,000 feet from a B-29 mother ship.

Each time, the 35-year-old Douglas test pilot said, the needle-nosed 40-foot ship rammed smoothly through the sonic barrier—which is reached at about 660 miles an hour at 35,000 feet and above. In pressurized suit and cockpit, Bridgeman says he was "not especially conscious of speed."

The moment that sends "your guts into your shoes," Bridgeman declares, comes when the last of the four rockets used by the plane loses its thrust.

"Then you have to bend 'er over fast, level off and start gliding for home."

Glide For Home
The record speed was made in level flight after the skyrocket had reached the apex of her climb. It was measured by instruments in the plane and radar ground readings carefully checked by the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics.

Eisenhower Off On Fishing Trip
By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
DENVER—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower packed some knock-about clothes and his fishing gear for a week's vacation starting today at a Rocky Mountain ranch.

The Republican presidential nominee originally had planned to set out yesterday for the secluded spot about 70 miles west of here near Fraser, Colo.

He delayed his departure 24 hours so he and Mrs. Eisenhower could be on hand (3:45 p. m. EST) for a 30-minute stop-over of a plane carrying their son, Maj. John D. Eisenhower, to Seattle. The major will leave there later this week for duty in Korea.

The general's only companion during a week of trout fishing at Fraser will be his long-time friend Aksel Nielsen, Denver insurance man who owns the ranch.

Mrs. Eisenhower will remain at the home of her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, who lives in Denver.

Eisenhower's political staff, headquartered at the Brown Palace Hotel, also will remain in Denver.

A five-car caravan of newsmen will accompany the general to the Nielsen ranch and remain until evening. They won't stay on there because of lack of accommodations.

Stilled By Sinus
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) will be unable to do much—if any—public speaking for about six weeks. A spokesman at the Naval Medical Center at nearby Bethesda, Md., where McCarthy is expected to remain a week after yesterday's minor operation for sinus trouble, said the Senator probably wouldn't be able to make speeches for some time.

Lawyer In Farm Case Disbarred

LANSING, Mich.—(AP)—Walter O. Estes of Lansing, attorney for stockholders of the Lapeer Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Association, today faced a one-year disbarment.

The disbarment was decreed yesterday in an opinion filed by a panel of three circuit judges—Lucien F. Sweet of Kalamazoo, Harry D. Boardman of Jackson and Raymond L. Smith of Holland.

The proceeding was initiated by the State Bar of Michigan under virtual instructions from the State Supreme Court. Estes was charged with using intemperate and improper language in briefs which reflected on the integrity of the courts.

In recent years, Estes has been legal spokesman for a group of Lapeer county farmers and stockholders in the defunct insurance firm who have been fighting attempts to collect assessments against them.

The decree was filed with the Ingham county clerk. It is not effective until a formal order is prepared by the bar and presented to the judges for signature, probably in several weeks. Estes can appeal the disbarment to the State Supreme Court.

Premier Of Iran Quits In Dispute

TEHRAN, Iran—(AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, emotional chief of Iranian nationalism, resigned unexpectedly after a dispute with Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi and parliament today met to choose a successor.

The resignation, which plunged near-bankrupt Iran into a new ministerial crisis, was announced at a closed session of parliament this morning by Hussein Ala, the minister of court, representing the Shah.

One deputy said the message from the palace disclosed that the 72-year-old premier quit last night after the Shah refused to agree to let him become minister of war as well as premier in the new government.

The dispute apparently occurred during a conference between Mossadegh and the monarch yesterday.

The house was unoccupied. It was set afire, and a neighboring home was damaged by flying debris.

It was the second instance in as many days of a plane hitting a house in this area. A Navy pilot was killed last yesterday when his disabled jet hit a Santa Ana home whose occupants were out shopping.

Today's crash took place as the craft left Northrop Airport, not far from busy International Airport, the city's main landing field.

Four Killed When Light Plane Rams Los Angeles Home

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—A light plane, taking off in a soupy fog, crashed into a house today. The sheriff's office said four bodies were taken from the plane.

The house was unoccupied. It was set afire, and a neighboring home was damaged by flying debris.

It was the second instance in as many days of a plane hitting a house in this area. A Navy pilot was killed last yesterday when his disabled jet hit a Santa Ana home whose occupants were out shopping.

Veteran Admits Campus Killing

NEW YORK—(AP)—An Air Force veteran obsessed with a theory for prolonging life was brought back in handcuffs today to New York where he says he killed a blonde he didn't even know on the Columbia University campus.

Bayard P. Peakes, 30, strode off a train from Boston, appearing almost to drag a defective to whom he was handcuffed.

He was brought back here after confessing orally in Boston to killing pretty, blonde Miss Eileen Fahey, 18, last Monday. Police rushed him to the district attorney's office.

Boston police said Peakes, who had been given a mental discharge from the Air Force told them he just "wanted to kill someone" because of an academic failure.

Miss Fahey, a bookkeeper, was shot to death at her desk in the American Physical Society office on the campus as she read the first of three letters she had received earlier that day from Pfc. Ronald Leo of the First Marine Division in Korea.

Leo, granted a 30-day leave, is flying here to attend Miss Fahey's funeral Saturday.

Boston Police Captain Francis Wilson said Peakes told of purchasing a .22 caliber pistol last June "with the intent of shooting someone" in the American Physical Society because that organization had turned down his thesis on the theory of life.

Lakes Carferry Tieup Drags On

DETROIT—(AP)—The strike of 250 officers on Lake Michigan and Detroit River carferries wound up its second week today with neither the railroads which operate the boats nor the officers' union giving ground in a bitter wage dispute.

The four railroads involved, meanwhile, were forced to lay off numerous other employees as the tie-up continues.

The Officers' Union has protested to the board that both the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Grand Trunk Western have notified their striking employees that they have been fired and that the C. & O. allegedly threatened to "blacklist" its strikers to keep any other railroad from hiring them. The C. & O. normally employs 70 officers on its six Lake Michigan ferries and three boats running between Detroit and Windsor, Ont. The Grand Trunk normally uses 30 officers on its lake boats.

No complaint has been filed by the union against the Ann Arbor Railroad, which runs five of the lake vessels, or the Wabash Railroad, which operates three river ferries.

The union is demanding pay raises of from $28 to $40 a day for ship captains and proportionate boosts for other licensed officers. It contends all other lake vessels pay the higher rates.

Bared Women Make Cop Forget Ticket
SYRACUSE, N. Y.—(AP)—Here are the bare facts:

Deputy Sheriff Arthur Willis halted a car for speeding yesterday morning. In it sat four women naked from the waist up.

As the quartet donned brassieres the driver said to Willis: "Well, men drive bare-chested, don't they?"

Wrote Willis, in a postscript to his report: "By the way, I forgot to ticket them for speeding."

River Dragged For Boat Crew

DETROIT—(AP)—Police harbor-master crews today resumed dragging operation on the Detroit River for the bodies of six or seven men who have been drowned in boat accidents yesterday.

Five of the supposedly drowned men, were seen aboard a stolen speedboat yesterday morning shortly before it blew up while taking on fuel stolen from pumps at the harbor-master's dock near the Belle Isle bridge.

However police expressed some doubt that the five men drowned. Authorities said they may have fled from the boat before the vessel exploded.

Also sought were the bodies of Edward Makulski, a 28-year-old Riverside, Ont., resident, and an unidentified fishing companion believed to have drowned when their outboard powered fishing boat was capsized by the wake of a passing motor boat.

Police said the stolen speedboat was taken from its river-front berth where it had been moored by one of four owners. The boat was believed to be the one that captivated the fishing boat.

Police said the ignition wires of the boat had been crossed to allow its operation without the necessary key. Authorities said a spark from the crossed wires may have touched off the explosion.

Weather Slows Up Korean War

By GEORGE McARTHUR
SEOUL, Korea—(AP)—Dismal weather blotted out the Korean air war today after American fighters Wednesday reported shooting down one of the best Communist jet pilots they have met.

Fast U. S. Sabre jets were challenged in three dogfights over North Korea late Wednesday by a flight of 50 Russian-built Mig-15s, described as "the cream of the crop."

"The best Mig pilots I have seen up to now," commented Capt. Arthur H. McCarthy, Dearborn, Mich., who was credited with destroying one of the Red jets—his first U. S. losses, if any, were not reported.

The U. S. chief of naval operations meanwhile arrived in Korea with promise of a new allied threat to the deadly Communist jets—faster carrier jets.

Adm. William L. Fechteler said the navy has two or three carrier jets in production which are equal to or better than the Communist Mig-15, and able to take off and land on the Essex-type, medium carrier.

Reds Move Gen. Dean, Prize War Prisoner

By ROBERT A. TUCKMAN
MUNSAN, Korea—(AP)—The Communists today said they have moved their prize captive, U. S. Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, from a prisoner of war camp at the bomb-shattered capital of Pyongyang to another camp in North Korea but did not give his new location.

The disclosure came in an exchange of letters by liaison officers of the United Nations command and Communist truce teams at Panmunjom.

The Red letter told of a large scale prisoner transfer, involving Dean, former commander of the U. S. 24th Infantry Division, and numerous Korean captives.

The Allied communication demanded an accounting of 1,881 missing U. N. soldiers believed in Communist stockades. The U. N. command said it has been making the request since December with "totally unsatisfactory" results.

The Allies at the same time answered a similar request from the Communists for an accounting of 1,014 Allied-held prisoners with information on all but four captives.

Dean is a medal of honor winner from Berkeley, Calif. He was captured in August, 1950.

The Reds announced his transfer in notifying the U. N. that they had abolished three prisoner of war camps and set up six new ones. Four of the new ones are at or near Pyongyang, target of a destructive Allied air raid last week.

The disclosure came during the fourth day of a Communist-called recess in secret armistice negotiations at Panmunjom over the dead-locked issue of prisoner exchange. The five-man truce delegations are scheduled to reconvene at 11 a. m. tomorrow (9 p. m. Thursday, EST).

Church Honors Msgr. Melican

Father Martin B. Melican, pastor of St. Patrick's church, became Rt. Rev. Monsignor Melican in a colorful and impressive service last night at which Most Rev. Thomas L. Noa, D. D., Bishop of Marquette, invested the robes and dignity of a domestic prelate of Pope Pius XII upon the Escanaba pastor. The service held in St. Patrick church was attended by approximately 90 priests of the diocese and visiting priests from other dioceses, members of St. Patrick's parish and friends of the new prelate.

Following the investiture, Very Rev. Msgr. David Spigatti of Marquette read the papal document, first in Latin and then in English. The service was concluded with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament by Msgr. Melican, assisted by Fr. Glen Sanford of St. Ignace as deacon and Rev. Frank Schermer of Manistique as subdeacon.

Bishop Explains Honor

In the investiture sermon, Bishop Noa explained the special privilege and honor being bestowed upon Msgr. Melican.

"The successors of Peter and of the apostles with the assistance of priests have carried on the work of teaching, sanctifying and ruling in unbroken succession through the centuries. As leaders in the church, they constitute the hierarchy—sacred rulers—and carry the title of prelate. In due time the prelates of the church came to be distributed into ranks according to the degree of authority placed in their hands.

"Today the word prelate in its proper sense is used with reference to cardinals, archbishops and bishops who have jurisdiction with the fullness of the priesthood. However, the Holy Father, who has need of special helpers in his administration of the universal church, accords certain powers to priests engaged in work at the Vatican and confers the title and dignity of prelate upon them. Of necessity these priests reside in Rome and are considered members of the household of the Holy Father and are called domestic prelates.

"In the course of time it becomes evident to the Pope that there were many priests throughout the world who deserved similar recognition by reason of their devoted and able work in the diocese. Hence, there arose the practice under which the title of honor, domestic prelate, without any special jurisdiction, is conferred on certain priests in their merit before the church. To them is accorded the privilege and wearing the apparel and insignia reserved to the prelates of the papal household and using the title, Right Reverend Monsignor.

Reception Follows

"Today we are assisting at the investiture of one of the priests of the diocese, Father Melican as domestic prelate. Today we mark publicly the fact that the Holy Father has given recognition to the meritorious service of Monsignor Melican to the church, by naming him a member of his household."

At the reception in the parish hall which followed the investiture, congratulatory addresses were given by Mayor Robert LeMire on behalf of the City of Escanaba; Supt. John A. Lemmer on behalf of the Escanaba Board of Education; Gervase Murphy, Calumet, on behalf of the Knights of Columbus; Win Schuldes on behalf of the St. Patrick's parish; Rev. Freiburger for the assistants of St. Patrick's church; Fr. Coignard for the Escanaba deanery; and Msgr. Zryd for the diocese of Marquette. James L'Heureux was master of ceremonies.

The program included skits by the children of St. Patrick's school, Gregorian chants by six students of the Dominican Seminary near Menominee, and songs by the Four Tisimos, Escanaba Barber Shop Singers.

Monsignor Melican was presented with a purse by Win Schuldes on behalf of the parish and a purse by Fr. Coignard on behalf of the Escanaba deanery.

Candy Treasure Hunt Friday Will Be At Royce Park

The children of the Royce Park area will take part in a candy treasure hunt to be held Friday afternoon from 1:30 to 4:30. This is the first of a series of party events to be held each week for the remainder of the playground season.

Games and races will also be held for the different age groups and small prizes will be awarded. The children have been learning new games and crafts for the past four weeks.

Briefly Told

Immunization Clinic — The weekly immunization clinic will be held at the Delta County Health Center Friday from 1 to 3.

Stamp Collectors — The Escanaba Philatelic Society will hold a month meeting at 7:30 Saturday evening in the city hall council chambers. All stamp collectors of Escanaba and vicinity are invited to attend.

Driver Ticketed — Beatrice Morin, 1406 Ludington St., was given a traffic ticket by Escanaba police last night for improper backing after her car collided with another in the 100 block of South 8th street.

White Lines — Safety Director Glen S. Leonard informs motorists that the newly painted white lines on Ludington Street curbs are not prohibitive parking zones. The curbs have been painted white in these areas to overrule the former yellow line which was found to be too long.

School At Engadine — Daily Vacation Bible school will be conducted by Mr. and Mrs. John Heikop and daughter at the Engadine Methodist church July 21-25 with sessions from 9 to 11:30 a. m., daily. Transportation will be provided if needed. The children will give their program July 25 at 8 p. m., at the church.

Mortorists Summoned — Tickets for reckless driving were issued last night by city police to George R. Anderson, 224 Lake Shore Dr., after he was apprehended on Ludington street and to Carlton J. Larsen, 615 First Ave. S. after an accident Tuesday night on Lake Shore Drive in which four persons were injured.

The chief exports of the Azores Islands in the Atlantic Ocean are fruits, grain, cheese, cattle, dairy products, canned fish and whale oil.

Bike Licensing Begins Today

A move to license all bicycles in Escanaba began today at the Escanaba police station.

Because of an anticipated rush for the permits, issuing will be handled by specially assigned personnel between the hours of 2 and 5 p. m. on weekdays only, according to safety director Glen S. Leonard.

A complete re-registration of all bicycles in Escanaba will be done, Leonard said, and all bicycle owners must bring their vehicles to the police station for safety inspection. In cases where the child who owns a bike is too small to complete his registration, the parent should apply.

Applicants will be asked for their old registration, a complete description of the bike and the serial number. The serial number is generally found on the bottom of the crank housing. If there is no serial number, Leonard stated, a number will be assigned by the police department.

"The license will be permanent one and need not be changed unless it becomes damaged or defaced, the bike is sold or the license lost," the safety director reported.

The cost of the license will be 50c and duplicates will also cost 50c.

When applying for licenses, Leonard asks that owners park their bikes on the south side of the police station, where they will be inspected, and use the front door of the building.

Leonard anticipates that registration of all bicycles in the city will take about a month and a half.

Hospital

Mrs. Andrew Rapette has been released from St. Francis hospital where she was a surgical patient the past 8 days and is convalescing at her home, Gladstone Rte. 1. Her condition is satisfactory.

The condition of Wayne Lindstrom, 205 N. 19th St., who is a patient at St. Mary's Hospital in Marquette, is much improved.

Virginia Democrats Prepare To Bolt At Chicago Convention

ROANOKE, Va. — (AP) — Former Governor William M. Tuck called on Virginia Democrats to break to clear the way for a clean break with the national Democratic party should the south be rebuffed at next week's convention in Chicago.

The ex-governor in a keynote speech prepared for delivery before more than 2,000 delegates to the state Democratic convention, bitterly assailed "the spurious doctrines * * * of 'Trumanism' and 'Fair Dealism'" and told the convention:

"By proper action before recessing today, it is essential that the delegates here assembled be assured of the opportunity of reconvening, if necessary, after the Chicago convention to take such further steps as may be in order for the protection, first of all, of the basic American principles and traditions so dear to us: And secondly, for the preservation of the Democratic party of Virginia."

Tuck, one of the principal figures in the dominant state Democratic organization headed by U. S. Senator Harry F. Byrd, had warm praise for Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, a candidate for the presidential nomination at the national party convention opening Monday.

But he declared that the national Democratic party "as at present constituted, cannot long endure." And he promised that the south, with Virginia, will wage relentless warfare on "Trumanism" at Chicago.

Following Tuck's address, party members were to name the final bloc of delegates to the national party convention in Chicago. The state's 36-man delegation will have 28 votes.

Quitting For Day Shows Up Acting Talent Of People

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—(AP)—Everybody loves a parade, but the one I like best to watch is the one out of the office at quitting time each day.

It is then the human parade looks most human. And you can tell something about each inmate by the way he starts the long voyage home.

The average worker will recognize at least some of the following standard office types:

1. The clock watcher—This reluctant beaver has developed a size 18 neck from raising his head to study the clock. When it hits 5:30 he is off like a springing deer. He couldn't get out of the place faster if someone hollered "fire!"

Same For 37 Years

2. The two hoary philosophers—One gets up and says, "Another day, another dollar." And the other climbs to his feet and says, "Yeah, a million days—a million dollars." They have been saying this every day for 37 years, and neither has four bits in the bank.

3. The worried suburbanite—He hauls out a timetable and starts muttering, "If I stop off and have one for the road I can catch the 6:03 train. If I have two, I can snag the 6:21. If I have three, lemme see now, I can—"

4. The fiddle-faddler—He has been trying to look busy all day without doing anything. Finally he quickly shoves a mass of papers in a drawer, and announces loudly, "Boy, what a workout this has been! Finally got my desk clean, though." But the only guy he's got fooled is the janitor.

Ambush In Elevator

5. The beat-the-gun artist—At 5:20 he gets up as if to go to the water cooler. Then he swiftly slides out the door, and runs down the fire exit so no one will see him catching the elevator.

6. The day dreamer—He sits there with glazed eyes until someone kindly shakes him and says, "Wake up, Homer, the ordeal is over."

7. The femme fatal stenographer—She has a heavy date, and since 2:30 she's been in the ladies room primping and putting on her cocktail party dress. When she emerges, a cloud of scent trails her, and for the next three days the filing cabinets smell like a catalog of French perfumes.

8. The office wolf—He sees the stenographer, arises like a mesmerized puppy, and follows her out, hoping to ambush her in the elevator.

All Worn Out

9. The boss—He comes out of his sanctum at 5:30, looks up at the clock in smug virtue, then shakes his head tiredly with an air of executive sacrifice.

10. The ambitious vassal—He closes his desk drawer with a loud bang, then races out in time to say breathlessly, "Gee, boss you're working late—again." What he means by this, of course, is, "Look at me, boss, I worked late, too. You can count on good old loyal me everytime, boss."

Well, there they are—the office pilgrims. Just getting out of the office each night takes them more real acting ability and energy than John Barrymore ever put into "Hamlet."

No wonder the tired businessman arrives home so worn out.

Next Move In Settlement Of Steel Strike Up To President

THE next move in the devastating steel strike is up to the White House. Industry and union leaders have announced that they are unable to find a common ground for settlement of the union shop issue which is the main obstacle in strike negotiations. No plans have been made for continuing the negotiations in view of the impasse that has developed.

The issue is now up to the White House but the President has a political ear to the ground on the eve of the Democratic national convention. Obviously he has no desire to take any action, even in the public interest, if such action reaches a discordant tone in union ranks. That means that it is most unlikely that he will act on the steel strike in advance of the Democratic convention.

The only action that the President could logically take that would put the steel mills back in operation is to invoke the injunction provisions of the Taft-Hartley labor act. This would promptly require an 80-day period in which to find a basis for settling the strike. In the meantime, the mills would be in operation.

President Truman has said time and again that he does not want to invoke the Taft-Hartley act and, of course, this decision is predicated upon political considerations. He has invoked the Taft-Hartley Act in the past to settle labor disputes in which the public interest was adversely affected. He could and probably would do it if it were not for the approaching Democratic convention.

The big issue in the strike that is rocking the economic foundation of the country is the union shop issue. The steel companies have insisted that they will not force any of their employees to join a union against their will. Some of the smaller mills settled with the Steelworkers Union on the basis of a compromise under which employees were required to join the union but were given an opportunity to withdraw within 20 to 30 days.

Industry officials now say that the union does not desire this provision in any contract with the big steel companies. If that is true, it means that hopes for settlement of the strike issues are farther removed than ever.

The country is being extremely hard hit by the steel strike. The effects are bound to be severe in the months ahead, even if the strike is settled promptly. The situation is serious and it's up to the White House to recognize it and act accordingly, the Democratic convention notwithstanding.

Questions and Answers

Q—Do American airlines have route numbers?

A—Airlines over America now have route numbers like highways. Airlines running north and south have odd numbers; those running east and west have even numbers.

Q—What is the modern theory concerning the Antarctic Ocean?

A—The National Geographic Society says modern exploration indicates there is no Antarctic Ocean. Up-to-date maps show a land mass there instead.

Q—Why are Panama hats so called?

A—Although these famous hats are made in Ecuador, they are called "Panama" because gold-rush pioneers first found them on sale there.

JUNGLE EF

We've decided it's an odd world. Traitorous American, English and Swedish weaklings are being arrested all the time for passing secret information to Russians. Nothing is done, though, about the Russians who are in these countries just to get such information.

Eisenhower Must Chart His Campaign Course

GEN. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican presidential nominee, has a great task ahead of him. A political novice and an amateur in domestic affairs, he must now develop a program and learn how to take command of his own political fortunes.

He won the GOP nomination because he was the most popular candidate. His popularity is rooted in trust in him as a man, in his character and his motives and his qualities of leadership.

In the month he campaigned as a political figure, he spelled out no specific policies. Yet he was not taken wholly on faith. For the general had already proved himself as a soldier, diplomat and statesman in two of the most crushing assignments that any American has ever assumed.

It is natural for many people to feel that a man who could do what Eisenhower has done as a commander of wartime and post-war armies might well master the art of domestic statecraft.

It is natural, too, that many are disposed to turn to a new face, a man without malice, who stands out so sharply against the tired old faces that today so heavily populate both major parties. Politically speaking, Eisenhower is a clean sheet of paper on which nothing sordid or disheartening has so far been written.

In his quest for the nomination, he had the further advantage of representing the moderate elements of the Republican party. Since 1940, these forces have always proved strong enough to choose a presidential nominee, though they have not had the power to wrest control away from the more conservative wing in the intervening years.

Curiously, Senator Taft is himself a moderate Republican in many important respects. But he has become a symbol of more extreme elements. In campaigning he has not striven hard to shake this label. He has been content to let it apply.

This association with extreme conservatives, plus some aspects of Taft's personality, underlie the widely held conviction that "Taft can't win," the devastating argument that brought him again to defeat in his third try for the nomination.

Eisenhower is free of these handicaps. But he has a full set of his own. Up to now he has been acquiescing in political decisions affecting his campaign, rather than commanding. If he is not to be a mere creature of others, he must now take hold and chart his own course.

More than that he must begin to offer evidence to the voting public that the faith and trust the people have in him is not misplaced.

With all its corruption and decay and internal disorder, the Democratic party is still a powerful force in American politics. To examine closely the voting habits of the U. S. electorate are unanimous in concluding that the Democrats have a substantial majority.

The Republicans are unlikely to wrest away any crucial part of this majority—or to convince new voters—unless they formulate a constructive program that offers all Americans real hope.

It is Eisenhower's task, therefore, to translate the trust that is felt in him as a man into trust for the political party he now leads.

The Doctor Says . . . Readers Offer Snoring Cures; Results Are Not Guaranteed

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D. — Written for NEA Service

Some time ago this column published a brief discussion of snoring and suggested that readers who had any suggestions might write in their experiences. Several did. G. D. M. writes:

"Tape across my mouth from side to side and extending an inch or two beyond each corner keeps my mouth closed all night, and, I am told, has changed the loudest snorer in this part of the country into a reasonably quiet sleeper."

C. H. S. refers to a method for correcting this trouble by having the patient close his mouth before going to bed and pasting a piece of court-plaster over his mouth, about a quarter inch wide and an inch long. This, he says, has to be continued for about a month.

A lady writes that her husband was a snorer until she persuaded him to sleep without a pillow, which apparently solved the problem.

Another reader says her husband was one of the noisiest snorers ever until she induced him to use two pillows. Now, she writes, "he is so quiet at night, I often listen to make sure he is still breathing." Another correspondent, K. L., also said two pillows stopped his snoring.

Finally, a lady who shall be nameless writes: "My husband was a chronic disturber of my nightly peace by reason of his stentorian snoring. By multiplying and disposing his pillows under his head and shoulders his position while sleeping was changed. Thereafter he ceased to snore."

"This may not be a cure of anything, but is related because it indicates that snoring may be due to faulty posture of the sleeper. Raising the head and shoulders by adding pillows may help but few, but each one should experiment in the matter of the sleeping posture."

Since none of the treatments suggested are likely to be hazardous for any healthy snorer, readers who are so inclined are welcome to try them, though this writer guarantees neither the results nor the comfort.

Q—Can you tell me if cancer of the throat is contagious? That is, can a husband or wife catch it from each other?—M. P. H.

A—I thought by now everyone was familiar with the fact that cancer was not contagious, and cannot be caught by one person from another.

Q—I have a skin condition called vitiligo, and I am much worried about this. Is there a cure?—Mrs. F. K. N.

A—This condition is due to lack of pigment in the skin, but the cause is obscure and there is no treatment which restores the normal pigment. It is nothing to worry about except for appearance's sake.

NOTE ON QUESTIONS

Dr. Jordan is unable to answer directly individual questions from readers. However, once a week, in this "Q & A" column he will answer the most frequently asked questions received during the week.

Merry-Go-Round

(Editor's Note—Prior to the Democratic convention, which promises to be one of the hottest in years, Drew Pearson is writing a series of columns diagnosing the qualifications of the candidates.)

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The most surprising of all the candidates in the Democratic stable is William Averell Harriman, former polo player, millionaire stockholder of the Union Pacific Railroad, ex-ambassador to England and Russia, and Mutual Security administrator.

When Harriman first started campaigning nobody took him seriously. A few of his friends were kind enough to observe that he might make a pretty good vice president. But that was all.

In fact, the only man who really took his candidacy seriously was Averell himself. And he has taken it so seriously and worked at it so hard, that he has ended up as one of the top contenders for the Democratic nomination.

Ex-Congressman John Carroll of Denver dropped into the White House the other day to tell the President how Harriman had come out to Colorado with all the cards stacked against him, but done such a terrific job that he defeated such stalwart Democratic delegates as Senator Ed Johnson and Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman.

HIGHBINDER FATHER

Probably the most surprised of all at the emergence of Averell Harriman as a crusading liberal would be his father, one of the toughest highbinders ever to milk the stock of a public utility. It was Edward Harriman who built the Union Pacific, then engaged in the famous battle with Jim Hill to control the Northern Pacific, a battle which did not end until it caused a crash in Wall Street.

Ed Harriman's motto was the public be damned. His son's motto is the public comes first. And almost everything he has done has been the exact opposite of his father—even to the point that friends accuse him of trying to atone for the economic sins of the past generation.

More likely perhaps is that Averell is following in the footsteps of his grandfather, a devout Episcopalian minister. He is an example of what happens in few countries of the world outside the United States and England—a young man of wealth who conscientiously tries to devote his life to public service.

Some of Averell's old friends have been unkind enough to say that if he hadn't been born with a silver spoon in his mouth he wouldn't have been able to feed himself. They have also made wisecracks about his lack of business ability and the lucky break for the Harriman fortune that Averell chose to go into government rather than business.

It is true that Harriman has now resigned as chairman of the Union Pacific, and that he has given up his former directorships in the Illinois Central and Western Union. But it is also true that he has kept a weather eye on his main property, the Union Pacific, with the result that that railroad's coal mines have the best safety record of any in the United States.

CONSERVATIVE PAST

Harriman has not always been the crusading liberal, however. In 1944, the Justice Department planned to bring a criminal antitrust suit against his railroad, together with most of the other roads west of the Mississippi. Harriman himself was to have been named as a defendant in the criminal conspiracy. When President Roosevelt reviewed the case, however, he said: "We can't indict our ambassador to Russia."

That alone probably saved the western road from facing criminal charges. Instead the Justice Department switched the case to a civil one.

Harriman was most indignant. The railroads, he apparently felt, had every right of conspire to fix rates. "If this be conspiracy," he wrote the Interstate Commerce Commission, "then the railroads of the country need better and bigger conspiracies."

Harriman is also campaigning today as the great friend of labor, and he seems to be sincere about it. But just four years ago when the Taft-Hartley act was up for discussion at the White House, Harriman, then secretary of commerce, did his best to persuade the President not to veto it.

And when the President was about to send a stiff message to the 80th GOP Congress on economic controls in 1947, Harriman also did his best to dissuade the President. At that time the Republicans claimed that no controls were necessary and Senator Taft led a heated battle to abolish them entirely. Truman ruled otherwise. However, he did so, over the head of his secretary of commerce, Mr. Harriman, who took a line inside the cabinet somewhat similar to Taft's that even the big steel companies would submit to voluntary price controls.

Full Cost Of Steel Strike May Not Be Known For Another Year

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON —(NEA) — It will take more than a year, according to government officials, to get an accurate picture of the appalling damage done to America's economy by the steel strike.

Its ramifications and costs are fearedly vast and complex. It will also take more than a year before even the direct effects of the strike have been overcome by government and industry, although much of the strike's damage is permanent and can never be completely repaired.

Here are some of the irreplaceable strike losses:

Far more steel has been lost than could have been produced by the facilities created since the start of the Korean war.

In other words, it is worse than if no steel capacity had been added for the Korean emergency. On July 1, 1952, production was down 7,275,000 tons, or 14 per cent below the first half of last year. Two weeks later the loss was 13,000,000 tons. Total loss could be many times that, when everything is considered.

Hundreds of millions of dollars in wages have vanished.

At the middle of July the loss of the steel workers was estimated at $300,000,000. It's many times that for the more than one million workers in other industries halted by the steel strike. Any increase in wages won by the strike won't begin to compensate the steel workers for their loss.

Hundreds of millions of dollars worth of production of autos, trucks, farm equipment, appliances and other major items using steel which has been lost by the strike can only partially be made up by a production speed-up later.

Strike layoffs spread all over the U. S.

Ford, Chrysler, General Electric, Westinghouse, Hughes Tool Co., and Budd Co., top a list that reads like a full stock market report.

Thousands of tons of food will be lost.

Crops which can't be stored will go uncanned after Summer and Fall harvests because of the tin can shortage caused by the strike. Fruits are the crops hit worst.

Every day of the strike, cost to the U. S. Treasury is estimated to be at least $3 million in lost income tax.

The loss to the states in unemployment assistance is also staggering.

And certainly not the least is the permanent loss in the production of ammunition, tanks, Army trucks, Bailey bridges, mine detectors and aircraft landing gears.

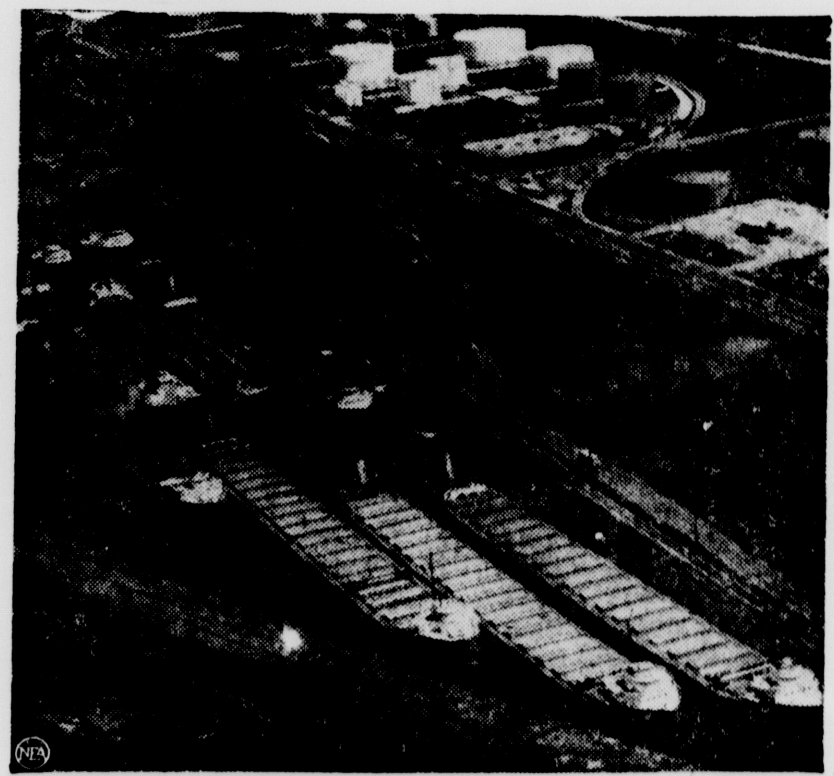

That's merely the list put out by Defense Mobilizer John Steelman weeks before an end to the strike was in sight. Total damage done to defense production will have to be kept a secret. It's valuable information to the enemy.

Approximately 12 per cent of the steel industry has been kept going for the most pressing defense needs, and about 30 small companies have signed agreements with the unions. This has helped stave off a downright calamity in defense production, but great damage has been done, nevertheless.

Here are some of the direct effects of the steel strike which will IDLE WORKERS, like this one sitting on a hill overlooking a steel plant in Coatesville, Pa., had lost an estimated $340,000,000 in wages by mid-July in steel industry alone.

IDLE SHIPS, like these ore carriers tied up at Milwaukee, usually work all Summer to build up stocks for Winter production. Idleness now will affect mills when lakes freeze.

be felt during the next 12 months.

The strike halted ore shipments across the Great Lakes. This winter, with the lakes frozen over and the ore boats idle, the hungry blast furnaces of the East will have to close down. It takes a non-interrupted Summer haul to store up enough for full Winter production.

When the strike started there was talk of removing controls on steel because it was plentiful. Now the whole controls program will have to be completely revamped for each industry. It will force re-adjustment of production schedules for many months before the troubles are ironed out.

It only takes a week after a steel strike is ended to get back close to maximum production. But it will be many months before vital stocks can be built up again by defense contractors and the government itself. This also complicates planning and puts the country in case of an all-out war,

Good Evening . . .

(Peter Edson is substituting for Chas. Dunathan who is on vacation.)

By PETER EDSON

CHICAGO—(NEA)—With 16 possible candidates for the Democratic nomination for President, anything can happen at the party's convention here. And it probably will.

By tradition and natural inclination, the Democrats have always put on a better show than the Republicans. The Democrats will have to go some this time, however, if they put on a better performance for drama, humor, suspense and fast action than the Republican vaudeville that is now gone but still not forgotten.

The shadow of the Republican nominee, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, of course, hangs over the Democratic fracas. If Senator Taft had been the GOP nominee, every Democrat from precinct committeeman up would have wanted to take him on. Against General Eisenhower, there may be some reluctance to run.

The 16 Democrats—and there may be others who crawl out of the stockyards woodwork—break down in three main groups.

Heading the list are the Four Favorites. First is Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, who claims from 300 to 400 delegate votes and actually has a little over 250 nailed down. Behind him is Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, with a claim of 300-vote first-ballot strength and a firm count of around 150.

TRUMAN'S OFFICIAL BLESSING

Behind these two southerners are two northerners who are in the unusual position of hoping that they get The Nod. The Nod, of course, is recognition and an official blessing from President Harry S. Truman.

Up to now Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois has had The Nod held out in front of him on a silver platter. But since he has been so reluctant to grab it and run, there is now considerable belief that The Nod will be given to W. Averell Harriman of New York.

Mr. Harriman has a little over 100 pledged delegate votes, but hopes he can muster 150 by first ballot time. Governor Stevenson has only 54 pledged delegates without ever having announced himself as a candidate, and he makes no claim of having any more. Doesn't want 'em, so he says.

In the group behind the Four Favorites are what might be known as the Seven Favorite Sons. The interesting thing about this Seven Sons group is that together they have 190 pledged delegates' votes.

This isn't enough to give any one of the Four Favorites the nomination. But it would give any candidate a big shove if it could be mustered behind him by the political bosses. It probably can't. Democrats just don't agree on things that easily.

The Democrats, it should be explained, don't count noses the way the Republicans do. This is to make it more confusing.

HAVE FRACTIONAL VOTES

The Democratic convention will have 1230 votes, with 616 necessary for a choice. But of the 1230 delegates, 886 district delegates will have a full vote apiece while 686 will have a half a vote apiece for a sub-total of 344.

This means that nearly every state will have fractional votes. And the confusion when they start polling big delegations like New York's 80 will really be something fancy.

Of the Seven Favorite Sons, Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma has 38 pledged votes. Vice President Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, 288; Robert J. Bulkley of Ohio, 27; Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, 40; Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, 26; Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut, 16; and Governor Dever of Massachusetts, 15.

Finally there are the Five Fractions. Last but not least, as the 17th possible starter there is the old maestra himself, President Truman. He says he's not running. But he's going to get a starter of 14 votes, anyway.

AN ADVERTISER'S ARTFUL AIDS

A correspondent has sent me a list of the terms used for the various types of printed matter distributed for advertising purposes, and asked that I distinguish between them. This is difficult, because the terms are loosely used. But here goes:

Broadside, sometimes called broadsheet: a single, large sheet of paper, printed on one side only, suitable for use as a poster.

Circular: According to U. S. Postal Regulations, "A printed letter sent in identical terms to several persons." More broadly, it resembles a broadside, but may be printed on two sides of the sheet and consist of several sheets. In governmental practice, a pamphlet, but usually without cover.

Folder: Any single sheet of printed matter (map, time-table, etc.) folded for convenient distribution. It may be a broadside, or a circular, or so devised as to resemble a booklet, but it is never stitched.

Bulletin: A condensed authoritative statement of current information. It may range from a single sheet to many pages. The term is broadly applied to booklets issued by governmental agencies, etc.

Pamphlet (PAM-let): A book of relatively few pages stitched or stapled together, and with paper or cardboard covers. It rarely reaches 80 pages, and is more often 16, 32, or 48 pages. It becomes a booklet when bound in cloth.

Brochure (bro-SHOOR): Same as pamphlet, though usually, in the attempt to live up to its French name, it is more ornate than a pamphlet.

Booklet: A small book or attractive pamphlet, usually devoted to a single object.

Satalog: A list or enumeration of things. As with bulletin, size or number of pages is unconnected with the term.

Handbook: A reference book of handy size containing condensed information in a specific field. The term goes back to ancient days when a book of such size as necessarily to lie upon a reading desk, while a handbook could be held in the hand for reading.

Manual: Identical with handbook, except that it is usually considered to be of pocket size.

City Council Meets Tonight

The City Council in meeting tonight will give second reading to a proposed traffic ordinance that will, if adopted, establish one-hour parking on the blocks immediately north and south of Ludington Street from Stephenson Avenue to Third Street.

The parking plan was earlier requested of the Council and was read for the first time in meeting two weeks ago.

First business on tonight's session in City Hall will be opening of bids on insurance coverage for the city's fleet of trucks and vehicular equipment, and on the purchase of asphalt for Escanaba's street paving program.

A second reading will also be given to an amendment to the Civil Service ordinance which provides for an increase from three to five the number of Civil Service commissioners and lowers the tenure of office of the members from six to five years.

The unfinished business of hearing of objections on increased assessment for paving on 11th Avenue North will be considered by the Council.

Other business slated for the meeting: first reading of a milk ordinance that would set certain standards of sanitation for local milk dealers; a first reading of an amendment to the city trailer ordinance; a report by city manager A. M. Aronson on cost estimates and construction of the advocated Frank Karas memorial bandshell; a resolution making the present road on ore dock property from Sheridan Road to the E. & L. S. tracks near Wells an official city road; and hearing of a petition for alley paving in the 1200 block between Ludington Street and First Avenue North.

SOO HILL — Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Bender Jr. are Mrs. Bender's mother, Mrs. Anne Schlessinger and Mrs. Louella Gilen of Ann Arbor. Tuesday the Benders took their guests picnicking at Nahma and the Big Spring. They will leave today for a visit at the Wisconsin Dells and Chicago before returning to Ann Arbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Desautel held a family get-together at their home. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Desautel and daughter, of Manistique; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Olson and family and Mr. and Mrs. Deltha Desautel of Gulliver and Mr. and Mrs. Felix Pearson of Wells. Following this reunion, the Henry Desautels left for a week's vacation visiting relatives in Gulliver and Manistique.

Register 400 More Voters

Due to active campaigns to "get out the vote" and constant reminders to register for the coming elections, about 400 more persons will cast a ballot in the Aug. 5 general primary.

A total of 7,492 eligible voters are now carried on the registration list by city clerk George Harvey.

The figure is less than those of past turnout years according to Harvey, but will probably grow to within the 1950 figure before the November presidential election. Two years ago 7,800 voters were registered with the city clerk.

About 700 voters renewed their balloting privilege in the past few months after they were notified that their eligibility had expired. Approximately 1,000 cards were placed in the housecleaning and all but 300 came back for renewal, Harvey reported.

On two nights when the city clerk maintained a registration stand in the city shopping district, about 250 persons renewed or established their voting privilege. The stand was sponsored by the Escanaba Junior Chamber of Commerce as part of its campaign to boost the vote in this year's elections.

Absentee ballots are now available in the clerk's office for persons who expect to be out of the city on election day, Harvey announced. Those persons can file a ballot before they leave the city.

Registration of each city precinct as disclosed yesterday by Harvey:

Precinct No. 1—748, Precinct No. 2—891, No. 3—644, No. 4—859, No. 5—829, No. 6—1,001, No. 7—720, No. 8—682, and No. 9—1,118.

City Alley Paving Continues; 2 New Alleyways Finished

Two more newly paved alleys in the city's summer improvement program will be open in the next few days after work was completed on the second one yesterday.

The alleyways, both north of Ludington Street, between 11th and 12th Streets and between 13th and 14th Streets, will take a few days' curing before they are ready to receive traffic, according to A. V. Aronson, city manager. The one

Red Benson Will Appear At Fair

Red Benson, famous radio emcee and star of the Mutual Broadcasting System's exciting and popular quiz show, "Take A Number", will appear in person at the Upper Peninsula State Fair at Escanaba on Friday and Saturday mornings, Aug. 22 and 23, it has been announced by John MacInnes, secretary-manager.

Red Benson will stage his audience participation quiz show both days at the fair. The presentations will be held in the morning of each day in front of the grandstand and hundreds of dollars worth of prizes will be awarded to contestants selected from the audience. The shows will be tape-recorded and broadcast several days later on the Mutual national network.

Another famous radio personality of the Mutual network, Bobbie Benson of the B-Bar-B ranch program, also will appear at the Upper Peninsula State Fair.

The 11-year-old Bobbie Benson, unrelated to Red Benson, will appear in person on opening day of the fair, Tuesday, Aug. 19, as a feature of the special show honoring Upper Peninsula school safety patrol leaders. Nearly 1,000 safety patrol leaders will be guests of the fair for this program and throughout the day.

In the 1300 block will be open this weekend and the alley between 11th and 12th Streets north of Ludington will be in use next week.

Pouring of concrete was begun this week in another alley, that south of Ludington in the 500 block. The first alley to be paved this summer, between 11th and 12th Streets south of Ludington, has been in use for the past week and a half.

Detroit Priests Crash In Woods

PENTICTON, B. C.—(AP)—An 11-man party last night rescued an injured Roman Catholic priest from a lonely mountain perch where he had lain helpless for 54 hours without food or water.

Rev. Lambert Lavoie of Detroit suffered a broken leg Monday when his light plane crashed on the steep mountain slope. It was yanked earthward by a downdraft 10 minutes after taking off from here for the 160-mile flight to Vancouver over rugged country.

His companion, Rev. Vincent Myrich, also of Detroit, was not seriously hurt in the crash. He walked out of the mountain wilderness 10 miles from this Okanagan valley city yesterday to summon aid for his fellow priest.

The search party of firemen and other volunteers found Father Lavoie standing beside his wrecked plane. He had fashioned a rude pair of crutches from pine boughs.

The priest's first words were: "Hi, fellows, got anything to eat?"

He was in good spirits and at first insisted that he could hobble down the mountainside on his rough crutches. He was finally persuaded by Dr. W. A. Wickett, a member of the search party, to board a stretcher and was carried to safety and taken to a hospital.

The two priests were on aerial holiday when the accident occurred.

Woman On Horseback Rides 1,300 Miles To Sacramento, Calif.

SPOKANE, Wash.—(AP)—When it comes to riding horses cross-country, pioneers had it easy, says Mrs. Jennie Hammond. She is riding her horse from Alberta, Canada, to her home in Sacramento, Calif.

Mrs. Hammond is stopping in Spokane for a few days to rest herself and Kilarney, her sorrel thoroughbred mare.

She became attached to Kilarney ten years ago while living in Canada. Mrs. Hammond moved to Sacramento shortly after that, but never lost her desire to have Kilarney with her.

That's why she went to get the horse at High River, Alta., and is riding her back to Sacramento.

Pioneers had no fences and no motor traffic to contend with, she said, commenting on the first 400 miles of her 1,300 mile journey.

Mrs. Hammond packs only a bed roll, a change of clothing and a little grain for Kilarney. Most of the trip so far she has camped out nights.

Nine Persons Hurt As Southern Pacific Strikes Tank Truck

CHANDLER, Ariz.—(AP)—The Southern Pacific passenger train, the Imperial, plowed into a empty gasoline tank truck at a crossing 14 miles southeast of here yesterday, derailling a section of the train and injuring nine persons.

None of the injured was reported in serious condition.

The fast-moving westbound train, powered by two locomotives, sliced the truck in two and continued almost a half mile past the crash scene before a damaged cowcatcher ripped up 100 feet of track and flipped both engines over on their sides.

The baggage car was pulled off with them and two express cars and a club car were derailed.

One passenger and eight crew members were hospitalized.

The driver of the truck, Glen L. Shorter of Salome, Ariz., was unhurt. He said he did not see the train.

Two Tornadoes Lash Texarkana Airport

TEXARKANA, Ark.—(AP)—The Texarkana airport took a beating yesterday from two tornadoes.

The first struck the airport at 2:18 p. m. (CST), bashed in an empty hanger, and littered the place with debris.

The second, whirling in an opposite direction, struck almost two hours later. This one tore down power lines and scattered uprooted trees on the landing field.

C. H. Newton of the U. S. Weather Bureau here said the second twister dipped into the Rondo community eight miles to the northeast, wrecked a few houses and heavily damaged stands of timber, but apparently injured no one.

Chrysler Takes Over Detroit Tank Plant

DETROIT—(AP)—The Chrysler Corp. will take over formal direction of the Detroit Tank Arsenal Sunday. It was announced here today by company spokesmen.

Chrysler has had a staff of experts in the huge tank producing plant for 60 days getting acquainted with operational procedure.

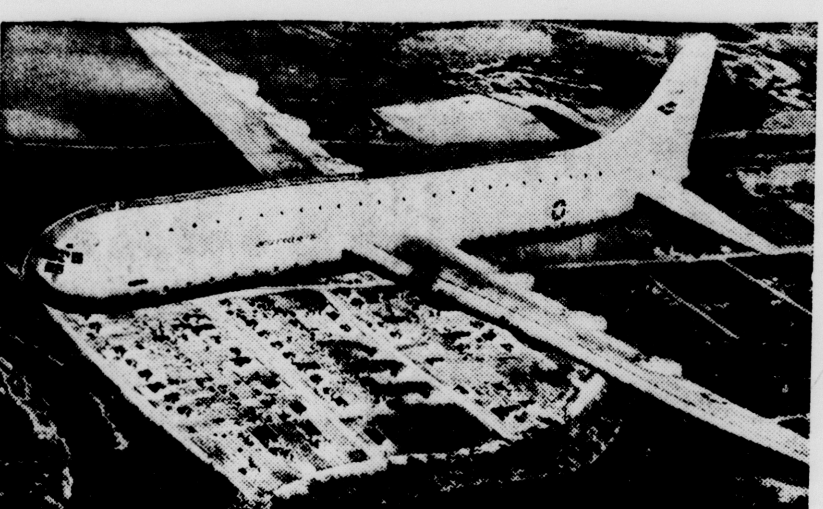

The army will retain control over the planning and research functions of the arsenal keeping about 3,000 employees under its control.

Chrysler said it would attempt to absorb as many as possible of

NO SUBWAY THIS--

The picture above was taken down in San Antonio, Tex., and at first glance it looks as if the city is getting a new subway. On the contrary, instead of being a subterranean tube, the "subway" is the high-flying upper deck of the XC-99, (pictured below) the Air Force's cargo version of the B-36 bomber. Operating out of Kelly Air Force Base, the giant freighter routinely carries 100,000-pound loads of high-priority cargo. It is 182 feet long, has a wingspan of 230 feet and, in three years of operation, has carried a total payload of 8,000,000 pounds.

Photos Show Wide Destruction By UN Bomb Raids In Korea

TOKYO — (AP)—The Far East air forces today said about 1,000 Communist military installations were destroyed or damaged July 11 in the biggest air strike of the Korean war at Pyongyang, Sariwon and Hwangju.

The report was made after evaluation of air photographs of the blasted areas.

The Peiping radio claimed more than 2,000 persons were killed and 4,170 injured.

More than 30 buildings in three Red munitions factories were blasted, photos showed. A direct bomb hit struck the Communist communications headquarters building in Pyongyang, demolishing 60 per cent of the structure.

Earth Tremors Jolt Corner Of Tennessee

DYERSBURG, Tenn.—(AP)—Two earth tremors, about 30 minutes apart, shook this corner of West Tennessee late yesterday.

Dishes rattled and houses creaked, but there was no report of damage.

Minor earth tremors are not uncommon in this area, scene of one of the most violent earthquakes on record.

An 1811 quake felled thousands of acres of forests and created the vast pit which became Reelfoot Lake, about 20 miles to the north.

Hot, Humid Weather Covers Wide Area

(By The Associated Press) Sun-baked areas from the Rockies to the eastern seaboard were in for another day of hot and humid weather.

Showers brought temporary relief to some areas in the swelter-belt. Cooler air moved into the New England region, upper New York state and the Dakotas.

But it looked like another day of muggy weather for wide areas in the Midwest, South and East. Temperatures climbed into the 90s again yesterday, with some cities reporting record readings for the date.

Thundershowers hit areas early today in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Crowded New York Subway Trains Bump; 183 Persons Injured

NEW YORK—(AP)—Two subway trains crowded with 2,500 perspiring passengers bumped at a station during the rush hour yesterday afternoon, pitching hundreds into tangles on the floor.

Police said today that 183 persons had reported injuries in the collision and near-panic which followed.

Fifteen of the injured remained in hospitals overnight. Many passengers were treated at the scene and others reported injuries to police after treatment by private physicians.

A Culver line train, losing its power, rolled backwards down an incline into the front end of a Fourth Avenue train waiting to enter the BMT Fulton Street station in lower Manhattan.

The motorman of the Fourth Avenue train, Francesco Battista, jerked to a stop and blew his whistle as he saw the train ahead backing into his.

The trains, both bound for Brooklyn, were not badly damaged.

Iron Lung Patient Given Baby Shower

LOS ANGELES — (AP)—It was a special baby shower yesterday for Mrs. Betty Seymour, 24, a polio victim.

Mrs. Seymour, who expects a baby in about a month, has been confined to an iron lung at the General Hospital since May 28.

Three other respirator patients decided on the party. Nurses wheeled their iron lungs to the door of Mrs. Seymours room so they could watch her open the presents which included baby blankets, clothes and rattles.

Party Nominees Of Democrats Get Progressive Tag

political party has "done so much, so well, for so many people." He declared:

"There must be no turning back or faltering on the great course our party has pioneered. There must be no betrayal of the New Deal and Fair Deal."

Barkley Is Echo

Matching the call of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the GOP presidential nominee for a "shining promise" crusade by the Republicans. Truman sounded the bugle notes of a "burning faith" crusade by the Democrats.

"There will be voices calling us to turn aside from the path to victory," the President said. "We cannot afford to be beguiled by the weary or the fainthearted."

"Our answer must be that we will not compromise with the forces of defeatism, or reaction, or fear—that we will not retreat from the great humanitarian principles that have made our country what it is today."

Vice President Alben W. Barkley, whose 74 years may not stop him from becoming a formidable candidate for the presidential nomination, echoed the President's demand that the party stand on its record in office.

Reciting what he said were gains by farmers, labor, business and the aged and unemployed, Barkley said the Democratic party has "earned the confidence of the American people."

Complications Ahead

Truman's message, apparently written well before he went to Walter Reed Hospital in Washington for a check-up after his tussle with a virus infection, exploded a new bomb under efforts of National Chairman Frank McKinney and others to compromise a Civil Rights plank in the party platform.

And it threatened further complications in the contest over the seating of rival delegates from Texas. One of these, headed by Gov. Allan Shivers, is definitely anti-administration. The other, headed by former Rep. Maury Maverick, is tabbed as a "loyalist" group.

Truman's call for "bold and resolute" action was interpreted here as reaffirming his stand that the party must not compromise on the Civil Rights issue.

Platform drafters tackle the question today with organized labor and Negro leaders demanding a plank "at least as strong" as that in the 1948 statement of party aims. That declaration indorsed Truman's call on Congress to create a fair employment practices commission with legal power to prevent job discrimination.

While Russell did an about-face on Taft-Hartley, he showed no inclination to retreat from his opposition to that type of federal agency.

"I will never be for any jail sentence, compulsory FEPC," Russell told a reporter today.

South May Bolt

James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, told newsmen union-labor is "not going to be satisfied with a promise like we got from the 1948 convention — we want performance."

Sen. Herbert H. Lehman of New York has pledged to carry the fight for a strong plank to the convention floor, if the committee of which he is a member compromises.

On the outcome of this battle may hinge the presidential and vice presidential chances of several candidates. Adoption of an FEPC plank might bring a walk-out by some Southern delegations although Russell who stayed behind four years ago has said he will take part in no bolt this year either.

Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, arriving tomorrow, will call the signals if any such move develops.

The approval of a strong Civil Rights plank would be regarded as a boost for Harriman's candidacy.

Harriman is running as an all-out supporter of the "Fair Deal" program, and his friend Ted Truman's convention message helped his chances materially.

Wall Street

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK — (AP)—A sharp jump ahead by Southern Natural Gas today enlivened an otherwise quiet and slightly droopy Stock Market.

The utility advanced as much as 5 points at around 60 following a proposal for a two-for-one split coupled with a dividend declaration of 70 cents as against 62½ cents previously paid quarterly. Trading in the stock, however, was light.

The key groups of steels, motors and railroads were unchanged to around a point lower.

Throughout the remainder of the list prices ranged over a spread of around a point either way.

Stocks on the curb exchange today were mixed. Lower were Molybdenum, National Fuel Gas, U. S. Soil "B," and Electric Bond & Share. Higher were Pittsburgh Railways, St. Lawrence Corp., and American Republics.

nomination, declared America's "dollar diplomacy" has been costly in lives as well as money. He spoke at Allegan.

"Nations," he said, "cannot buy friendship and more than an individual can."

Potter said, "the administration's foreign policy not only has failed to contain Communism, but it has been far short of effective in winning friends among the free nations. Success lies not in spending dollars but in leadership such as that which will be provided by Gen. Eisenhower and Sen. Richard Nixon, who have proven their ability to cope with Communism at home and abroad."

Another candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination, Clifford A. Prevost, called for an end to the "police action" in Korea and withdrawal of American troops as soon as possible.

In a televised (WWJ-TV) talk, Prevost said, "I would like to see this country withdraw from all military commitments in Asia. The yellow races have little interest in our way of life. We are far apart in a religious way. There is little basis for the understandings we hoped to reach."

Budget Trimming Needed

In the GOP gubernatorial contest, Lt. Gov. William C. Vandenberg told an audience in Ferndale he is the only candidate who is urging economy instead of new taxes.

"We don't need new taxes," Vandenberg said. "We need stern adherence to the rule that the budget must fit the purse."

Donald S. Leonard, former state police commissioner who is seeking the nomination as governor, in a speech at Flint urged close examination of the GOP record on labor legislation. He said the bulk of beneficial legislation is Republican in origin.

"In Michigan," he said, "the record of the party on all phases of labor legislation stands out as progressive and helpful."

Leonard appealed for unity in a talk with party leaders in Detroit.

"Unity," he said, "is the party's great need in this time of preparation for the coming election fight."

Secretary of State Fred M. Alger Jr. spoke at Ionia in his campaign for nomination as governor. He voiced belief that the struggles in the national party conventions mean "a reawakened interest of the average man—the so-called little people of America—in their government."

"More than that," he added, "it reflects a grass roots determination to take no more orders from unseen powers."

The flare-ups at the Republican convention and those already brewing for the Democratic convention, Alger said, mean new viewpoints, and new goals which wise leaders are bound to heed.

Bacon Is Reinstated At Jackson Prison

JACKSON, Mich.—(AP)—George L. Bacon, one of a number of Southern Michigan prison officials affected by shakeups in the wake of two recent convict mutinies, was restored to an assistant deputy warden's status today.

Two days ago Bacon was relieved of his duties as assistant deputy warden in charge of custody, which made him the prison's No. 2 man. He was placed on "special duty," interpreted by some persons close to prison affairs as a possible prelude to dismissal. Inspector Charles Caholl of the prison guard was given his job.

Today, acting William H. Bannan announced that Bacon has been named assistant deputy warden in charge of trusty prisoners. This is the post vacated by George Knopp, who has been promoted to succeed Bannan as deputy warden at the Michigan Reformatory at Ionia.

Flying Windmills Off For Flight To Europe

PRESQUE ISLE, Me.—(AP)—Two helicopters took off today for Goose Bay, Labrador, on the second leg of a flight the Air Force hopes will be the first Transatlantic jaunt by "Flying Windmills."

The helicopters, aided by a light tail wind, expect to make the 570 mile Labrador hop in about eight and a half hours, according to Major Albion T. Sawyer, liaison officer traveling aboard a C-54 cargo plane which will escort the "copters on the flight to Wiesbaden, Germany."

The flight started Wednesday from Westover Air Force Base, Mass.

The Air Force is testing economic feasibility of flying helicopters to Europe. It costs $2,000 to crate and ship each helicopter.

checkup "with all the works."

Between medical tests and periods of rest yesterday, the President was up much of the afternoon working on legislation passed by Congress just before it adjourned. The White House listed 37 bills he signed during the day.

Later he dictated to his personal stenographer for more than an hour in an attempt to catch up on accumulated correspondence.

Truman is in the presidential suite at the hospital completed five years ago, and which he has never used before. It includes a living room, bedroom, dining room, sun porch and bath.

Margaret In Ireland

Because of the President's hospitalization, he missed seeing Thomas J. Gavin, of Kansas City, Mo., who will cast Truman's vote at the Chicago Democratic convention.

Gavin, his alternate, came into Washington Tuesday night and twice telephoned the White House in an effort to confer with the President. He plans to return to Kansas City this afternoon, and there was no indication whether he would see the President before leaving.

Truman told a recent news conference that reporters should keep their eye on Gavin since he will make known the President's preference for the Democratic presidential nomination when he casts his ballot on the first roll call at Chicago.

The President's daughter, Margaret, is abroad on a vacation tour with Mrs. Drucie Snyder Horton, daughter of Secretary of the Treasury Snyder. She was in Dublin, Ireland, yesterday, taking in the sights. She cancelled a proposed visit to Killarney, a tourist center, saying she was tired.

Inside The Democratic Party:

Roosevelt Heritage And Truman Paternalism Win For Democrats

THREE MAIN POINTS OF FOCUS: No matter who the Democratic candidate is, he'll pay lots of attention to women voters (left), to organized labor (center) and the farmers (right).

By JOHN GUNTHER

What's inside the Democratic Party? First, the heritage of Roosevelt.

Second, the paternal influence, whatever it may be worth, of Mr. Truman.

Third, rival candidates, none of whom hate each other quite so much as do the leading Republican candidates.

Fourth, baffling uncertainty who the candidate will be.

Fifth, important sectional differences.

Sixth, confusion.

Seventh, in spite of Ike and everything, some modicum of hope.

The greatest single, overriding advantage the Democrats have in the campaign about to be fought, with no holds barred, is the fact that the balance of power between the parties has changed drastically, with the result that the Democrats are now apparently the majority party in this country, not the Republicans.

Recent Gallup polls are illuminating. The Democrats can expect to poll 39 per cent of the total vote in 1952, and the Republicans 34 per cent.

Independents—people who say they have no party choice—will obviously decide the issue.

In 1948, the independent vote went 57 per cent Democratic, 43 per cent Republican. But a poll taken in March, 1952, upped the Republicans (among independents) to 45 per cent, while the Democrats dropped to 36 per cent, with 19 per cent still undecided.

Even so, to win the Democrats will need to take only six million independent votes on the basis of an estimated total electorate of 55 million. The Republicans must take nine million.

Figures, like delegates, are not very fixed objects. They may change radically between now and November. The impact of a fresh, growing personality like Eisenhower might make millions of voters move about. The Democrats don't know who their own candidate will be, and quite possibly he will be somebody very weak.

So unprecedently fluid is the whole political picture and so uncertain is the long-run future that I heard one esteemed specialist say, "No matter who gets in, he will be a one-term president."

The second great advantage the Democrats have, according to their own special view, is that the country is prosperous, most people are getting along fine, and the average voter is better off than he has ever been before. Hence, he is going to vote for the status quo. So reason the Democrats.

The Democrats—with substantial aid from events—have kept employment full, and both farm prices and wages dizzying high. They have not only given a new measure of security to people at large; they are in a position to promise more and continuing security.

It is mostly the rich who howl about taxes, say the Democrats. As to the poor, they are infinitely better off, and, no matter whether you like it or not, there are more poor people in this country than rich. Simply look at comparative income figures.

Thus the first of the so-called Democratic advantages merges into the second. The American left-wing electorate outnumber the right wing, and the Democrats—so they say—have the left wing sewed up.

Another presumptive advantage to the Democrats is that a whole generation of voters has grown up knowing nothing but Democratic rule. Many slightly older remember as a living, glaring fact the crash and depression that preceded Roosevelt. That crash can still be whooped up into a fluorescent topic.

Next, look at issues. The chief Democratic issue will be the substance of what I have just mentioned—security for the under-possessed, good times for all, the welfare state. The Democrats will attack the Republicans as "the party of the rich and the privileged few, who will forget about the working people and bring on another Hoover depression with bread lines and millions of unemployed."

Rebutting the Republican charge that they are going to "socialize" America, the Democrats will say that, on the contrary, their reforms will benefit the free enterprise system, and that the net result of the New and Fair Deals has been to produce the most prodigious national income any country has ever known.

On budget and taxes, the Democratic viewpoint is defensive. Just let a Republican administration try to run this country without high taxes, they say.

Third, communism and foreign policy. The Democrats will attempt to repudiate the Republican accusation that they have been soft to communism, and will say that, contrariwise, they have done a tremendous job in combating world communism.

They will cite the Truman Plan for aid to Greece and Turkey, the Marshall Plan, the European Recovery Program which undoubtedly made it harder for communism to function in western Europe, and the attempt to stop predatory communism dead in its tracks in Korea.

The Democrats assert that the Republicans, particularly if Taft is the nominee, would try to pull out of Europe, cut foreign aid, and endanger world peace. They say Taft's isolationism would be welcomed by the Kremlin.

As to financial aid to Europe, the Democrats will point out that a large proportion of the money has been actually spent within the United States, and has helped to produce full employment and prosperity (no matter what temporary strikes may be taking place).

Finally, in the light of all this, what will Democratic strategy be?

First, to hope that Taft will be nominated, because he will be, the Democratic leaders think, far and away the easiest candidate to beat. I heard one Democratic luminary so luminous that I hesitate to mention his name say "I pray on my knees every night that Taft will be it."

Any Democrat, the Democrats feel, can beat Taft, because if Taft is running, the Democratic Party is almost certain to carry the pivotal states with large labor votes, like New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Michigan, and California. (Understand that I am merely reporting a Democratic view and that Taft Republicans will, of course, dispute this theory hotly.)

Second, to try to force the Republican candidate, no matter who he is, into the furthest possible reactionary position, both

OSU Geese Research Seeks Better Birds

COLUMBUS, O. — (P) — The widely known geese research program of Ohio State University dates back to a couple of immigrant geese which their Italian owner didn't want to cart back to Italy.

The pair, one of whom still survives, were obtained by the university 13 years ago at the conclusion of the World Poultry Congress in Cleveland. Since then the poultry science department has been busy experimenting to produce geese which are good layers and in which the sex may be determined by the markings.

Prof. E. L. Dakan, originator of the project says that whoever coined the expression, "Silly as a goose," didn't know what he was talking about. He also says geese are miserable when left alone but in flocks they "gab like a group of girls at a freshman hop."

Seaway Opposition Not Good Business, Says U. M. Professor

By JOHN F. MAYHEW
ANN ARBOR, Mich.—When it comes to the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project, the United States is acting like anything but the good businessman it claims to be.

That is the opinion of University of Michigan engineering professor Ferdinand N. Menefee, long-time advocate of the 1,200-mile shipping and power project.

Tolls To Run High
Consider these facts, presented by Menefee as an authority who has fought for the project for a quarter of a century:

1) If American refusal to cooperate in the building of the $818,000,000 project is final, Canada, bristling with enthusiasm and strength, born of growing national pride and the discovery of huge deposits of oil, uranium and high grade iron ore, will build it.

2) She will build the navigational portion of the project alone. It will be built, self-liquidating through tolls, with a good share of funds from American investors.

3) Over the years, the United States will pay in tolls much more than its share would have been under the proposal tabled recently by the U. S. Senate. The most recent estimate of the cost for the seaway was made by the U. S. corps of engineers in 1951—$434,000,000. That is less than one per cent of the U. S. military budget for 1953.

Ore Sources Vital
In effect, Prof. Menefee says, the U. S. is turning down a vital partnership in favor of being a customer, without rights or control over the operation or use of the proposed seaway.

Apart from that, he says, consider the American steel industry, so vital to the U. S. economy in peace and war.

Depreciation in the iron content of the ore taken from the great open pit mines of the Mesabi Range in northern Minnesota has forced industry to look for other sources.

Some companies are bringing ore from Venezuela in South America over the long ocean trip to the East coast where U. S. Steel and Bethlehem Steel have expanded from the Midwest's so-called Great Lakes basin.

But the biggest lode, estimated to include at least 400,000,000 tons of good grade ore, has been located in Labrador, 300 miles North of the St. Lawrence River mouth.

Without the seaway, ore from the Labrador strike may be shipped down the eastern coast, further encouraging the movement of the steel industry.

Costs Going Up
With the seaway, the ore could be moved, without costly transshipment, up the St. Lawrence into the Great Lakes ports, six of which rank among the 15 largest ports in the nation.

Lionel Chevrier, Canadian minister of transport estimates that there is the prospect of an increase of about $200,000,000 a year in the cost of raw materials as well as an even greater increase in the price of final steel products if Labrador ore must be transported by rail to the Great Lakes basin. The same holds true, he says, if dependence must be placed on such new processes of reducing low grade ore as are at present known.

The importance of the Great Lakes and the surrounding area, holding about one-third of the entire U. S. population, cannot be overestimated, says Prof. Menefee. He was greatly encouraged by the July 1 federal decision to allow New York State to enter into the cooperative building of a giant 2,200,000 horse power development near Cornwall, Ont., and Massena, N. Y.

Project Is Necessity
But the whole project is a vital necessity from the standpoint of economy and security, he adds.

Menefee has little patience with the anti-seaway group, whose efforts were reflected in the 43-40 vote in the U. S. Senate June 18 to recommit the proposal to the Senate foreign relations committee.

"They are not voicing their real objections," says the professor. "They are worried about competition but they say the seaway would be frozen over in winter months, would be vulnerable to enemy attack, that it costs too much or that it is not deep enough.

He points out that the Sault Ste. Marie locks, that link Lake Superior with the lower lakes, are frozen four months of the year but still handle more traffic in eight months than is handled in the combined 12-month operation of the Suez, Panama and Kiel Canals.

As for enemy attack, the same can be said of any such project, says Menefee. All are vulnerable in some degree but the very addition of another vital installation makes the odds greater against loss of raw material by the destruction of any single one. The defense officials of the nation have wholeheartedly endorsed the project from the standpoint of security.

Stalled By Minority
The U. S. will pay much more as a customer than it would as a partner, he says, and the proposed 27-foot depth would handle 75 per cent of the U. S. merchant marine.

Menefee regrets the "complacency" of Americans in their failure to let the Senate know their reactions to the project.

As a result, he believes, you have a situation in which the U. S. government, part of the Congress and probably a good share of the people favor the project, whose operation is stalled by a minority group led by railroad and port organizations.

The fears of the objectors is minimized by Prof. Menefee. "Anything that helps the country as a whole will help them too," he insists. That was the case with the Panama Canal, which was opposed by the same interests.

The Canadian Railroad sentiment is different than the American. Take the statement by Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways:

Nation Grows Fast
Prof. Menefee thinks we must consider our "complacency" as a disease reaching farther than the St. Lawrence Seaway.

"We've always thought of Canada as a small nation under our wing. But that situation has changed in the last 15 years. It is a rich, enthusiastic, rapidly growing nation that can and will move on by itself."

"If you'll look at the record," says Menefee, "you'll find Canada has been a fine friend and always very decent toward us. They are a smart people and they are going ahead. If we don't want to go along in cooperation, it will be to our distinct disadvantage."

Chevier sums up the Canadian attitude toward our failure to join in the project:

"You have a well-earned reputation in such fields, which you live up to magnificently, even in Europe, with great power and navigation developments financed from Marshall aid. x x x But where are these qualities (broad vision and prompt action on major projects) when it comes to a project that concerns your own economy and Canada's, your own defense and ours?"

Money Is The Root Of Complex Problem

By Elizabeth B. Hurlock, Ph.D.

It's not an uncommon thing for people who have money to think that everyone is after their money and that they like them just so long as they can do things for them. This "money" complex is making the young woman who wrote the following letter very unhappy:

(Q) "I am 29 and lonely. For years, I had to stay at home to take care of my elderly parents. Now both have died and I am alone. My father was wealthy and left me in a comfortable position. My friends tell me that the men who date me are interested in me solely for my money. This makes me suspect every man I date and as soon as he begins to show an interest I am afraid it's his money, not myself, he likes. How can I get over this feeling?"

(A) It sounds as if your friends were suffering from a case of "sour grapes." It is foolish to think men like you only because of your money. Have you ever thought that your money might be more a liability than an asset?

Most men, contrary to what your friends tell you, shy away from a young woman who is well-to-do. They are afraid that people will class them as "fortune-hunters" or that the woman will try to dominate them because she holds the

Today's Recipes

Blueberry Drops

Ingredients: 2 egg whites, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup cultivated blueberries (washed and well-drained), 2 cups corn flakes, 1 cup coconut.

Method: Beat egg whites until stiff, gradually adding sugar. Fold in blueberries, corn flakes, and coconut. Drop by teaspoonfuls about 1/2-inch apart on greased baking sheet. Bake in hot (400F.) oven 12 to 15 minutes. Makes about 24 cookies.

Buttered Carrots With Celery

Ingredients: 2 cups diced carrots, 1 cup diced celery, 3/4 cup boiling water, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, freshly-ground pepper (to taste).

Method: Put carrots and celery in medium-sized saucepan; add water and salt. Bring quickly to a boil; cover saucepan, reduce heat, but keep boiling actively until tender—8 to 10 minutes. Drain off small amount of remaining liquid in saucepan. Stir butter into vegetables until melted and add pepper. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Aly Khan May Visit In Hollywood Soon

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Aly Khan may come to Hollywood soon to visit his estranged wife, Actress Rita Hayworth, and their daughter, Yasmine.

Miss Hayworth said yesterday, through a Columbia studio spokesman, that the Moslem Prince told her recently by telephone from Europe that he plans to come to this country in August.

"He mentioned that if he did so he would like to come on to see Yasmine. I said that would be fine, but it was all very indefinite" the actress was quoted.

REA Sponsors Essay Contest

A 1,000-word essay contest on the subject "The Economics of Electric Power and its Uses on the Farm and in the Home" is being sponsored by the Alger Delta Cooperative Electric Association of Gladstone for 4-H Club members in Alger, Delta, Menominee and Marquette counties.

There will be a winner in each of the counties named and the 4-H boy and girl who is adjudged the best writer will receive an all-expense paid trip to the American Institute of Cooperation to be held at Michigan State College, East Lansing.

The Youth program, which the essay contest winners will attend, is to be held Sunday, Aug. 10, through Tuesday, Aug. 12. The Institute is having its 24th annual meeting at Michigan State and more than 2,000 delegates representing all types of cooperatives from every state in the union as well as Puerto Rico and Canada, are scheduled to attend.

Essays must be turned in to the proper 4-H leader by July 25. Leaders will in turn judge the contests.

Contestants must be between 15 and 21 and the essay should be approximately 1,000 words in length.

4-H leaders of the various counties are Clayton Reid, Alger county; Fred Bernhardt, Delta; Lester Walcutt, Menominee, and Douglas Turini, Marquette.

Seek Walks On Thirteenth St.

In an effort to obtain sidewalks along Thirteenth street from Delta to Lake Shore Drive, the City of Gladstone over the signature of H. J. Henrikson, city manager, is sending the following form letter to all property owners on Thirteenth street whose property does not now have a sidewalk.

"The City Commission is giving serious consideration to the hazardous condition existing on 13th Street from Superior Avenue to the lake shore. Every day hundreds of small children travel this road to the park and beach. Not having continuous walks the children are forced to walk on the road and we consider ourselves very fortunate that there has been no serious accident to date.

"In order to relieve this condition the Commission is requesting all property owners on 13th Street who do not now have sidewalks to place them in at the earliest possible moment. The cooperation of the property owners will not only enhance the value of their property but may also save the life of a child.

"Please advise at your earliest possible convenience if and when we may expect your cooperation."

City Manager Henrikson said the commission was endeavoring to have the work done on a voluntary basis instead of as special assessment construction, so that some costs entailed in special assessment projects could be avoided.

REDUCE With Rennel

Muskegon Lady Does It

"I have been using Rennel Concentrate and would like to tell you of the wonderful it has worked for me," writes Mrs. O. Holman, 1646 Dyon St., Muskegon, Mich. "While using Rennel I have lost over 25 lbs. and am not on a diet. Since I have lost weight that stuffy feeling is gone. Now I can do all my own work without tiring and rest much better at night. I will use Rennel until I get back to normal weight."

Obtain liquid Rennel at your drug store, mix with grapefruit juice as directed and take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. If you do not lose weight with the very first bottle just return it for your money back. You need never know a hungry moment while reducing with Rennel. Insist on Rennel.

J. C. Miller defeated Norm Butler, 6-4, 2-6, 0-6, to win the Junior event and take permanent possession of the Junior trophy in the City Tennis Tournament, according to results announced by Beverly Burt, recreation director.

It was the third time that Miller won the event, thus retiring the trophy.

In reaching the finals Miller defeated Jerry Thorsen, 6-4, 3-6, 3-6, while Butler routed Tom Brewer in straight love sets.

Norm Beauchamp copped the intermediate tournament with a 6-3, 6-3 victory over Bob Cannon. In reaching the finals Beauchamp beat Dick Ellegreet, 6-2, 6-2, while Cannon topped Ed Farrell, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2. In another game Dick Goodman defeated Tod Butler, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2.

The junior and intermediate champs will play off to determine who plays the senior champion, Bill Cannon, for the chance to play Mark Buckman, who held the senior title the past two years.

Buckman will defend his title on Monday, July 21, at 1:30 on the playground court.

August Tourney
Entries are now being accepted for the tournament to be held here starting August 12. This is limited to Gladstone entries, Miss Burt states.

There will be three divisions, junior, intermediate and senior in both doubles and singles and both boys and girls may enter.

An entry fee of 50c per entrant is being charged. Medals and trophies have been donated by merchants.

Registrations should be made with Miss Burt.

County Clerks Meet At Blaney

The 44th annual convention of the Michigan Association of County Clerks opened yesterday morning at Blaney Park and will be concluded Friday noon.

Principal speaker at Wednesday's session was D. Hale Drake, Michigan state treasurer, who discussed the topic, "Little Hoover and Reapportionment." William Wittenberg, chief of the county audit division, office of the auditor general, and Edward J. Frey, state director of elections, also were on yesterday's speaking program.

Scheduled for today were a trip to Grand Island where George E. Bishop, secretary-manager of the U. P. Development Bureau, was to speak, and a visit to the Big Spring near Manistique.

The convention banquet is scheduled for tonight, with Walter F. Gries, of Ishpeming, discussing the subject, "The U. N. of the U. P."

A 9:30 a. m. business session is slated for tomorrow morning and an informal luncheon at noon.

Floyd J. Poole, clerk of Jackson County, is president of the clerks' association.

Books At Hospital Auxiliary Sale To Be Offered At 60c

Books will be available at the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital Auxiliary book sale at a price of 60 cents or less, it is announced. Included in the book offerings will be many best sellers and other popular books, including pocket size editions.

The sale will open Monday, July 28, at the Ford garage and will continue for several days. Also available at the sale will be pattern books, pictures, picture frames, and sheet music, both classical and popular.

Pattern books will be offered at an average of five cents each. Collection of books and other items for the sale is now underway. Proceeds will be used to help carry on auxiliary activities on behalf of the county hospital here.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation and thanks to all the kind neighbors and friends who assisted during the death of George Bratschi. We are very grateful to the Rev. G. A. Herbert for his consoling words and other manifestations of sympathy, to those who served as pallbearers, furnished their cars, sent floral and spiritual offerings and to all others who aided in so many ways. The memory of these acts of kindness will always remain with us.

VFW Post Offers Support To Local Baseball Group

Full support to the Manistique Baseball Association in its efforts to build a modern diamond at the fairgrounds was pledged by the Veterans of Foreign Wars at their regular meeting Tuesday night.

The post directed that a letter be drafted expressing its views and mailed to Everett N. Anderson, president of the baseball organization.

The post also approved a policy of extending social memberships to local citizens who have given outstanding cooperation to the VFW or its members and listened to a report on the VFW National Home at Eaton Rapids by Everett Anderson, district commander.

It was announced at the session that Lionel Mercier, past commander, had been appointed a department legislative officer by the state commander.

The letter dispatched to the baseball association follows: "Please be advised that at our last regular post meeting the membership unanimously went on record as supporting your fine organization in its efforts to construct a beautiful, new baseball park in Manistique this season."

"When the time comes for a call for assistance on our part in time, labor, and support in this fine endeavor, please feel free to advise me accordingly so that I may contact our membership to assist you as directed."

"Only with the full support of all organizations in this city, as well as the City Council itself, can Manistique enjoy what many, many other sports-minded communities have done for years. We firmly believe in a strong recreational program as a means toward developing better citizenship in our youth, better relationships with neighboring towns, and a better environment for all who live here."

Very truly yours,

John Nessman,

Commander."

Indian Lake To Get Bluegills

In preparation for planting bluegills in Indian Lake, a move long advocated by many local sportsmen, planting stock will be seined Sunday in Peanut Lake, near Seney, under the auspices of the Schoolcraft County Sportsmen's Club, it is announced.

Members of the club and other interested sportsmen are requested to assemble at 8 a. m. Sunday at Triangle Park for the trip to the Seney township lake. Those making the trip are advised to wear old clothing and rubber boots if possible, and to bring a lunch.

The seining operation will be under the supervision of Lee Anderson, of Newberry, district fish supervisor, and Martin Miller, superintendent of the Thompson fish hatchery. Trucks, seines and tanks will be provided by the conservation department.

The captured bluegills will be taken to the Thompson hatchery for fin clipping, and will be replanted in Indian Lake later.

Entry Deadline For VFW Festival Queen Is Sunday

Deadline for entering candidates in the VFW Water Festival Queen contest is Sunday, July 20, it is pointed out by Mrs. John Vaughan, contest chairman.

Preliminary judging of candidates is scheduled for Monday evening, July 21, at the VFW hall. Judges will select seven girls from the various entries, and these will be judged later at the Oak theater to determine a new festival queen.

Other winners of the preliminary judging will become members of the queen's court.

Only Schoolcraft County girls who are unmarried and between the ages of 17 and 21, inclusive, are eligible to be entered as candidates. Entries may be made by filling out coupons published recently in local newspapers and mailing them to Mrs. Vaughan, 611 Oak St.

The new water festival queen will also be Schoolcraft County's entry in the U. P. State Fair Queen contest, it is announced by Fred D. Heltman, executive secretary of the Top O'Lake Michigan Chamber of Commerce.

Last year's festival queen was Miss Joan Sheahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Sheahan, Range St.

School Census Shows Decrease

The 1952 school census in the townships of Schoolcraft County shows a drop of nine since the 1951 census, it is reported by Ada S. Watson, county superintendent of schools.

This year's census records a total of 1,207 children compared to 1,216 reported in 1951.

Decreases are recorded in five townships. Increase are reported in Doyle, Mueller and Thompson townships.

The census for each district follows:

Doyle, 178; Germtask, 215; Hiawatha, 163; Inwood, 207; Manistique, 185; Mueller, 113; Seney, 88; Thompson, 58.

Of the total children recorded, 628 are boys and 579 are girls. Tabulation of the 1952 census in the city has not been completed, it is reported by A. F. Hall, superintendent.

Evening Parade August 7 To Be Tourney Feature

An evening parade on Thursday evening, Aug. 7, will be one of the highlights of the Upper Peninsula Volunteer Firemen's Tournament here, it is announced by James Slining, general chairman.

The procession, scheduled for 7:30, will form at the intersection of Deer and Fifth Sts. and will march through the eastside and westside business districts.

Clarence Thorell is parade chairman.

Several floats already have been booked for the event, and others are expected, Slining said.

One parade regulation, the chairman pointed out, is that all vehicles entered in the procession must either qualify as floats or be decorated. Trucks and cars will be barred from the parade unless they have sufficient decorations affixed to them, including public vehicles and new car models.

A prize fund has been established for the parade.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plate. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

The Escanaba Bears, playing under Stephenson lights last night, staged a four-run uprising in the ninth inning to decision Wallace 9 to 5.

The win cements Escanaba's position at the head of the Tri County League standings. Manager Jack Beck's Bears now have nine wins against a lone pair of defeats.

Righthander Jack Chriske spun his fifth straight league win, fashioning a seven-hitter while fanning eight and walking three. Chriske helped put the game on ice in the ninth with a two-run single.

Seventh Straight

For the Bears it was the seventh straight victory in a concerted drive for first place in the league standings. The Bears started winning on June 8 against Daggett and haven't dropped one since.

Wallace set the Bears back on their heels with a run in the second and three in the fourth to lead 4-0. Escanaba bounced back with a pair in the fifth and one in the sixth to narrow the count. Two runs in the top of the eighth put Escanaba ahead for the first time, 5-4.

But Wallace knotted it 5-5 with a singleton in the last of the eighth. A triple by Aman, first baseman, scored third baseman Paul who had walked.

Big Inning

Babe Kleiman opened the Bears' half of the ninth with a single. Jim Nyquist walked and Tippy Larmay was hit by a pitched ball to load the bases. Beck reached first on an error by Aman and Kleiman scored from third on the play. Chriske slashed his single, sending in Nyquist and Larmay, and scored himself on a single by Paul Gunderman.

Gunderman and Kleiman led the Bears at the plate with three hits apiece. Kleiman and Larmay contributed doubles. Aman and Paul both connected for triples for Wallace.

In a Sunday game not previously reported Wallace edged Daggett 4-2 in six innings.

White Birch, Dells Post Softball Wins

White Birch turned back Paper Mill's bid for first place in the American softball league last night, 11-5, in the feature game at Memorial Field.

In the preliminary, Dells broke the Harnischfeger jinx by trouncing the Harnies 8-5 for the first time this season.

Leo and Francis Lancour shared pitching duties for White Birch. Harry Lancour served back of the plate. Leo led the league-leaders at the plate with three hits in four trips.

Louie Kositzky went the distance on the Dells mound with Bob Anderson catching. Bob McDonough started for the Harnies and needed help from Les Kamine in the third. The Dells got to Kamine for five big runs in the fourth inning.

In a preliminary Pony League game the AFL Unions team defeated Elks 8-3 behind three-hit pitching by Don Trotter. Trotter had a no-hitter going into the seventh inning when the Elks picked up all three of their hits.

Bob Hansen and Elmer Besonen shared hill duties for the Elks.

League officials announced this morning that Friday's regularly scheduled game between Insurance Association and Delta Hardware has been postponed.

In the National League last night Westby's, recently reorganized, won on a forfeit from Escanaba Township.

QUESTION: I contend Yankee Stadium has the longest center field fence in the American League. Right or wrong?

Answer: Wrong. Philadelphia's Shibe Park's 468-foot center field barrier is seven feet longer than New York's. But the Polo Grounds tops 'em all, 484 feet.

Q. What is the major league record for most home runs in a single game?

A. Four, held jointly by Bobby Lowe, Braves, 1894; Ed Delahanty, Phillies, 1896; Lou Gehrig, Yankees, 1932; Chuck Klein, Phillies, 1936; Pat Seerey, White Sox, 1948; and Gil Hodges, Dodgers, 1950.

Q. How many shortstops are in baseball's Hall of Fame, and who are they?

A. Only four—Hugh Jennings, Joe Tinker, George Wright and, of course, Honus Wagner.

Q. Why didn't Rube Waddell, who had won 27 games, pitch against the Giants in the 1905 World Series?

A. The Athletics' jostling southpaw was kept out of the Fall classic that year by a shoulder injury incurred falling over a pile of luggage in a Pullman car while trying to break Andy Coakley's straw hat.

Home Golfer Leading Canadian Open Field

WINNIPEG—(AP)—Canadian golfers, off to a running start yesterday in the $15,000 Canadian Open golf championship, have to show today whether they can stand the relentless pressure of tournament play.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, for years Canada's big hope for the National golf title United States players have dominated since 1915, led a squad of nine Maple Leaf shotmakers who broke par 72 on the first day of the 72-hole tournament.

Leonard shot a 66, a competitive record for the St. Charles Golf and Country club, to share first place after the opening 18 holes with Johnny Palmer from Baldwin, N. C.

Henry Martell of Edmonton Highlands, 38-year-old former Canadian amateur champion, backed up Leonard with a 67, tying with blonde Dick Mayer, a skillful tournament player from St. Petersburg, Fla. Each matched the old course record set three years ago by Wally Ulrich of Austin, Minn., who was four strokes off the pace yesterday with a 70.

American Trio

A third Canadian broke 70—Lou Cumming of Toronto who carded at 69 with a hot 33 on the out nine. He shared his score bracket with five others, including Dutch Harrison who won the championship in 1949.

At 68 stood three Americans, two of them well known in Canada: Freddy Haas Jr., who won the Canadian Amateur here on the St. Charles course in 1936; Smiley Quick, Pasadena, Calif., who won the Ontario Open title last year; and Al Zimmerman of Portland, Ore.

Within striking distance of the leaders in the wide-open field came 24 other players—nine with 70s and 15 with 71s—and sox of them were Canadians.

Last Canadian to win the National Open title was Karl Kaffer of Ottawa in 1914. Since then it has gone to the U. S. every year except 1946 when Bobby Locke of South Africa shot a record 268 to top the field.

Defending champion Jim Ferrier, with a chance to be first man to win three Canadian Opens in a row, was in the 71 class. He complained about the heat in the draw—he set out yesterday at 3:15 p. m., and was to go at 12:37 p. m. today—and said "this is my third and last trip here."

The gallery of 3,500 to 4,000 persons, pulling hard for the Canadian shooters, found plenty to cheer about in the Leonard and Martell rounds.

Leonard, whose putter was sour last week in the Canadian Professional Golfers Association championship, sank a 40-footer on the first green and from there he played faultless golf from tee to green. Once his tee shot got off the narrow fairways but he got out of trouble handily and finished with a card showing six birdies and 12 pars. Martell matched Leonard's birdie-production but went one stroke over par on one hole.

Marty Furgol, a U. S. tournament veteran from Lemont, Ill., quit on the 18th hole, when well over par. He broke his putter shaft in disgust on the eighth green after two three-putt greens in a row and threw the broken club up into a tree. Souvenir hunters tried in vain to shake it down. Tommy Bolt of Durham, N. C., nicknamed "Thunder Bolt" for his displays of temper, stamped on his putter at the 13th and tried to throw it into the Assiniboine river on the 17th.

In This Corner With Ray Crandall

Jimmy Bourke, 11-year-old Rotary pitcher in the Escanaba Jab-see Little League, was a mighty proud boy this week. Pete Kutches, star second baseman with the Escanaba Bears, borrowed Jimmy's baseball cap to wear Sunday in the game against Bark River. Kutches came through with three hits in three trips. "Pete," Jimmy yelled after the game, "you can wear my cap every game if you want!"

Nap Ross, Cleveland scout who conducted the major league baseball tryout camp here last week, really thought a lot of Escanabans and their baseball program. He wants to make the school an annual affair here. But he wants to come back even before next summer. "I'd like to bring a team of young Detroit stars up here around Labor Day for an exhibition against the best of the young players here," Ross said before leaving Saturday night. "I have a lot of boys playing ball in Detroit and they'd love a trip to the Upper Peninsula. And it would give the youngsters in Escanaba a chance to see the type of players we grow in the city," he explained.

Pete Kutches, St. Joe's all-time athletic great who broke all Upper Peninsula season scoring records in basketball last season and made all-state in both basketball and football, is in East Lansing this week. Kutches will take an entrance examination with an eye to entering Michigan State in the fall. He has a number of other excellent athletic scholarship offers. One particularly attractive offer came from the University of Wyoming.

Ed Toyra, coach of the fine Manistique boxing team, stopped in this week to tell us plans for his outdoor card Aug. 7, in conjunction with the U. P. Firemen's convention. Toyra said Bob Barnes, former Milwaukee Golden Gloves novice heavyweight champion from Manistique is back from service and is helping train the boys.

Bob Stropich Gets First Little League No-Hitter

First no-hitter in Little League baseball this season was registered by unbeaten Bob Stropich last night as he hurled Kiwanis to a 5-0 victory over the Lions.

It was the sixth straight win for Stropich and his fourth shutout of the season. It keeps Kiwanis at the top of the standings with six wins, two losses.

The league-leaders will face Rotary Friday evening in the final game of the first half. St. Joe tangles with the Lions this evening.

Ken Schwalbach worked the route for the Lions. He limited the Kiwanis batsmen to three hits, but shaky support kept him in trouble.

Ken Gunderman, Little League commissioner, announced that all members of the Little League all-star team must turn their birth certificates in to Karl Dickson, league president, by Saturday morning.

Packer Training Camp Will Open On July 28

GREEN BAY, Wis.—(Special)—The Green Bay Packers launch their 34th season of professional football with the opening of training at Grand Rapids, Minn., Monday, July 28.

Head Coach Gene Ronzani, starting his third campaign in the driver's seat, is looking for his best season and one of the best in the long and colorful history of the team. Ronzani's teams posted a 3-9 record in his first year, 1950, and finished with the same mark last fall.

Ronzani will take approximately 50 athletes to camp, including 20 veterans of the '51 Packer team and the fruits of the most powerful college draft list in Bay history. More than 20 members of the 30-player draft roster already have signed, including the All-American quarterback from Kentucky, Babe Parilli, the No. 1 choice.

Coach List

Packer coaches returning from last fall besides Ronzani are Dick Plasman, Tarz Taylor, Ray McLean and Chuck Drulis. Bob Perina, the former Chicago Bear who has been scouting for the Bays during the last two years will assist with coaching, especially during the early training period.

Packer fans won't have to wait long to see their team in action against real National League opposition. The first non-championship game will send them against the New York Giants in Milwaukee's Marquette stadium Saturday night, Aug. 16—just 20 days after the start of training.

To complete the Wisconsin scene, the Packers will engage the murderous Cleveland Browns for the first time here Saturday night, Aug. 23. Then, the Packers will meet Pittsburgh in Latrobe, Pa., Aug. 29, the Cardinals in Chicago Sept. 7, the Washington Redskins in Kansas City Sept. 14, and Pittsburgh again in Minneapolis Sept. 17.

After this rugged series, Ronzani figures he'll have the Packers in top working order for the 12-game NFL card, opening with the traditional battle against the Bears here Sept. 28. Other games in Green Bay bring in Detroit Oct. 26 and Dallas Nov. 23. League games in Milwaukee are Washington Oct. 5, Los Angeles Oct. 12 and Philadelphia Nov. 2.

The Packers will sharpen up for the non-league card with two intra-squad games—the second annual Fish Bowl classic in Duluth Friday night, Aug. 8, and a contest in Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 11.

The Packers will be handicapped some for their first two non-league games, since six of their draft

Reaching My Prime Now, Says Third Baseman Kell

AP Newsfeatures
NEW YORK—George Kell was finding it rough regaining his batting form when we last saw him. That was back on May 1 in Yankee Stadium when he was with the Tigers and hitting .261 in the first 12 games.

Everybody knows third baseman Kell is not that kind of a hitter. He is fifth in total hits among the American League's active batters with more than 1,300 safeties. Something was wrong.

"I'm off on my timing," said Kell. "I'm going to start hitting that ball back to the pitcher just to get my bat and swing back in the groove."

That's just what Kell did when he was traded by Detroit to the Boston Red Sox on June 2. He left the Motor City batting .297 in 46 games.

First game in a Red Sox uniform he accounted for five runs with a home run and a double. The next day he made two more hits. He hit in his first 10 games with the Sox before he was stopped.

At the 60-game mark Kell was hitting .325 and pressing Cleveland's Al Rosen and Boston's Dom DiMaggio for the lead. There's a good chance that Kell will lead the league in hitting. He has before. In 1949 he hit .343, beating Ted Williams by a fraction of a point.

Kell has hit better than .304 his last six years so, you can see Red Sox manager Lou Boudreau knew what he was doing when he demanded Kell in the nine-player deal with Detroit.

"It was the biggest mistake I ever made in baseball when I traded George Kell to Detroit for Barney McCosky," Connie Mack often has said. That was back in 1946 and the native of Swifton, Ark., has hit in the upper strata ever since, leading the league in hits the last two seasons.

Kell broke in with the Athletics in 1943. This is his 10th year in the league. He spent four years in the minors, topping his Class A career with a .396 at Lancaster, Pa., in 1943. His average that year was baseball's highest.

"After 10 years it's tough to get much better," says Kell. "But I think I'm reaching my prime right now. I figure I should be good for at least three to five more years."

Young Golfers Eye U. P. Meet

IRON MOUNTAIN — (Special)—Although the entry list is not yet complete, the squad which will represent Iron Mountain in the U. P. Golf Association tournament in Escanaba is being bolstered by a crop of up-and-coming young golfers expected to strengthen Iron Mountain's bid for a winner in the coming mid-summer golf classic.

Along with these newcomers to U. P. golfing tourney circles will be a list of veterans who have already been under fire in previous U. P. golf competition.

Named to represent Iron Mountain at the U. P. tourney thus far have been Pete Tomassoni, Tom Renn, Ernest "Stubby" Flaminio, Bill Towson, Jack Glidden, John Shields, Everett Erickson, "Bobby" Khoury and Walter Jasonowicz, of Norway. The entry list will be enlarged before the opening day of the tourney.

Last year, Iron Mountain's Bill Towson lost to Bruce Christensen in the last hole of semi-final play. Christensen went on to win the U. P. championship. Three years ago, Towson lost out to U. P. champion, Tom Messinger in the finals of the U. P. tourney held at Iron Mountain.

U. P. Invitational At Escanaba Club Draws 150 Women

The Escanaba Golf Club was host to 150 women from throughout the Upper Peninsula in the annual women's U. P. Invitational yesterday.

The one-day affair was termed the most successful ever presented here.

Verona Rinelli of the Riverside Club in Menominee, posted low medalist score of the day, 95, to receive the top award.

Other low gross and low net winners from the clubs represented yesterday follow:

Clara Martenson and Catherine Lambert of Highland, Rosella Nault and Mary Soli of Marquette, Lela Jandry and Colleen Rintmaster of Norway, Dorothy Coulter and Vi Goodman of Gladstone, Eunice Washburn and Marge Gonty of North Shore Menominee.

Mrs. John Christensen and Flo Sullivan of Riverside Menominee, Echoe Deibert and Tyne Godell of Munising, Fran Dahlquist and Ruth Malsack of Iron Mountain, Louise Thompson and Marijane Malloy of Manistique, Lois Levine and Mary Johnson of Ishpeming and Ruth Needham and Ann Harrington of Escanaba Club.

Myster, sizes went to Dorothy Farrell of Escanaba Club and Eva

Caron of Gladstone.

Prizes for the longest drive, shortest drive and high on No. 3 hole went to Bunny Moersch, Blanche Christie all of Escanaba Highland.

High for day, 18 holes and nine holes, went to Edith Wickstrom of Munising and Lorry Sophie of Norway.

Millie Boyce is general golf chairman at the Escanaba Club. Assisting chairmen are Irene Hogan and Ruth Owen.

Lion Grid Team Signs Prep Star

DETROIT—(AP)—The Detroit Lions are going to give Joe Mlinarich, a Johnstown, Pa., high school guard, a break in professional football.

Mlinarich never played college football. Only a few high school players in recent years have made the jump into bigtime pro football.

Mlinarich is a 225-pound 6-footer. He picked up some experience during his four years, just completed, in the Army. He was graduated from high school in 1946.

The Detroit club signed him after learning he was named to the 1951 All-Army team and had beaten out Clayton Tommemaker, 1949 All-America guard from Minnesota.

Davey Beats Basilio But Shelved By Cuts

CHICAGO — (AP)—Undeclared Chuck Davey's bid for a shot at Kid Gavilan's welterweight crown today was still intact but blood-smeared and due for a two-month shelving.

Davey took a brutal beating about both eyes last night despite an unanimous 10-round "revenge" decision over rugged Carmen Basilio, a real tough guy from Canastota, N. Y., at the Chicago stadium.

The two had fought a disputed draw at Syracuse, N. Y., on May 29. Basilio was awarded a split decision in that fight, but the scrap later was ruled a draw by the New York Boxing Commission because of a technical violation in the referee's record of points.

This time, the 26-year-old Davey, who holds a master's degree in education from Michigan State, gave a boxing lesson most of the way to Basilio, a lad with a high school education.

Out Of Gas

But when it was over the former NCAA champion looked like he had been caught in a dark alley by an accurate bat-wielder.

Davey admitted he started too fast, attempting for a knockout. "I ran out of gas in the middle of the fight, that's all," said Davey, who scored his 34th victory in 36 professional bouts without defeat.

As the fight wore on, instead of Davey's southpaw style puzzling Basilio, it was the bobbing, butting, long-swinging Basilio that nearly caught up with the favorite.

Frequently, in the early rounds, Davey whipped stinging combinations, but when it seemed a solid punch might have Basilio going, it just didn't come.

It may not have shown on the video screens in the national television of the bout, but Davey was a gory mass at the finish when referee Frank Gilmer voted 54-46 and the two judges 55-45 in his favor.

Two Cuts

Davey's white trunks looked like a slaughter-house apron from spurts of blood caused when the fast-finishing Basilio slashed open a cut near the left eye in the eighth round and a gaping slit on the right eye-lid in the ninth. Davey claimed he was butted in the ninth.

Basilio, who snorted after the fight that Davey "can't break an egg," won the final two rounds and the patched-up Davey needed all of his boxing skill to avoid serious last round trouble. The first round was even the rest going to Davey.

It took three stitches to close Davey's right eye gash. Davey's manager, Hec Knowles, agreed Chuck needed at least a month to probably heal both eye wounds.

Another month of condition, he said, would follow before Davey could take on his next opponent, perhaps Rocky Graziano, in a "money bout," first one for the campaign-weary ex-collegian.

New Olympic President Foe Of Professionals

HELSINKI—(AP)—A thorough shakeup in the entire Olympic program was forecast today to make sure that everybody taking part is a Simon-pure amateur.

The move would be a logical step in view of the elevation yesterday of Avery Brundage of Chicago to the presidency of the International Olympic Committee.

The I. O. C., runs the Olympic program. This has grown from a handful of sports and athletes at Athens in 1896 to the present octopus of 20 sports and 8,000 competitors for the Helsinki games which open Saturday.

World Leader

Brundage is the world's leading advocate of amateur sports. He has fought the inroads of professionalism at every occasion without regard to his personal popularity.

Both in his position as president of the United States Olympic committee and as a member of the I. O. C. executive commission he has opposed any suggestion to liberalize the interpretation of an amateur.

Many times he has fought a losing battle as he did in 1950 when he sought to rule ski instructors out of subsequent Winter Olympic games.

It was Brundage who delayed temporarily the entry of Soviet Russia into the Olympic family because he personally wanted to be sure that Russian athletes are amateurs.

At the Vienna meeting of the I. O. C. last year when Russia was admitted, Brundage said:

Takes Over Sept. 1

"Their officials tell us they are amateurs. They have denied reports that they receive money for winning. We have no way to make a separate investigation so I will vote in favor of admitting them."

He will take over his new, unpaid job on September 1. For the present Olympic games the executive will be the aging J. Sigfrid Edstrom of Sweden, who has headed the organization since the war years.

Although the ruling body made the news yesterday, competition also continued on the athletic fields in field hockey and soccer.

The United States was bounced out of the soccer qualifying competition in a one-sided battle with Italy. The Italians whipped the U. S., 9-0, in the first round at London four years ago. Last night the Americans improved by one goal. They were beaten 8-0.

Two Upsets

Two surprises were the defeats of Great Britain, home of soccer, and Chile. The British lost, 5-3, to Luxembourg, in overtime, and Chile was edged by Egypt, 5-4. Brazil defeated Holland, 5-1.

These matches ended the qualifying rounds. The draw for the regular Olympic tournament will be made today. The teams will be Finland, Norway, Luxembourg, Italy, Brazil, Egypt, Russia, Yugoslavia, Denmark, Poland, Hungary, Sweden, Germany, Turkey, Austria and the Dutch East Indies.

In field hockey last night Germany defeated Poland, 7-2, and France beat Italy, 5-0. This competition is part of the actual Olympics—not a qualifying deal as in soccer and basketball.

The basketball round robin resumes today after a 24 hour lapse with Romania meeting Italy, Cuba taking on Bulgaria, Canada playing Egypt and Hungary tackling the Philippines.

Field hockey continues with India against Austria and Great Britain against Belgium.

GEORGE KELL Gets The Hits

Boost Lead To 4 1/2 Games

Yanks Jar Indians Twice

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
The Yankee Stadium, graveyard of Cleveland pennant drives in the past, is haunting the Indians again. Cleveland started the baseball world by winning its first three games in the home of the New York Yankees this year. This almost matched their victory total for the previous two seasons during which they managed to win only five of 17 games in the house that Ruth built.

But Cleveland's dreams of a happy hunting ground in the stadium were rudely shattered yesterday. The Indians missed an opportunity to virtually tie the Yanks for first place by dropping both ends of a double-header, 8-7 in 10 innings and 7-4. They now are 4 1/2 games behind.

Come From Behind
The Yanks came from behind to win the opener. Yogi Berra tied the score at 7-7 in the eighth inning with a two-run homer, his 20th of the season, and Hank Bauer broke it up by singling home rookie Kal Segrist in the tenth.

Cleveland hopped on Johnny Sain for five runs in the third inning, two on a homer by pitcher Bob Lemon. Lemon was forced to retire after six innings because of the heat. Mickey Harris, Lou Brissie and Mike Garcia failed to protect his 6-4 lead.

The Yanks won the nightcap with a four-run rally in the seventh against Bob Feller. Gil McDougald's three-run homer was the big blow of the rally.

Tom Gorman, recalled along with Segrist from Kansas City the other day, was the winning pitcher. Gorman took over in the top of the seventh and doused a rally that netted Cleveland two runs. He bowed out for a pinch-hitter in the eighth and Allie Reynolds sealed it up.

Sox Creep Up
The defeats also endangered Cleveland's grip on second place as the third place Boston Red Sox defeated the Chicago White Sox, 7-3, to move to within a half game of the Tribe.

Lefty Mel Parnell scattered nine Chicago hits as he coasted to his seventh victory. The Red Sox hopped on Joe Dobson for six runs in three innings. Hoot Evers homered with one on in the second and Boston locked it up with four more in the third.

Southpaw Bill Wight pitched the Detroit Tigers to a 9-0 victory over Washington. White held the Senators to four hits while his mates collected 14. Walt Drope collected two hits in four trips, giving him a record of 15 hits in his last 18 trips. A two-night doubleheader between Philadelphia and St. Louis was rained out.

Dodgers Keep Lead
Brooklyn maintained its five-game lead in the National League, downing Cincinnati, 5-3, while the runner-up New York Giants eked out an 8-7 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in 10 innings. In other games, Philadelphia edged Pittsburgh, 8-7, and Chicago tripped Boston, 3-2, in 13 innings.

Three first-inning errors by Red catcher Andy Seminick helped the Dodgers score two runs and the Brooks remained in the van for keeps. Seminick's miscues set a league record for most errors in one inning by a catcher. Ben Wade, with help in the ninth from Joe Black, gained credit for the Dodgers' 12th victory in 13 games over Cincinnati.

The Giants almost blew the decision to the Cards. The Red Birds jumped on relief pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm for five runs in the ninth inning to send the game into overtime. Al Dark doubled home Dave Williams with the winning run in the tenth. Dave Koslo retired the Cards in the last of the tenth, getting Stan Musial to hit into a game-ending doubleplay.

Connie Ryan pounded out four hits, including a homer, to lead the Phils to victory. Player-manager Phil Cavarretta singled home Tommy Brown from second base to beat the Braves.

Wight Tosses Shutout Victory Over Senators

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The famine-stricken Detroit Tigers celebrated a 9-0 victory feast over the Washington Senators today to buoy their faint hopes of getting out of the cellar.

But just past the halfway mark in the 1952 American League campaign, Detroit—despite last night's win on Bill Wight's fourth-hit pitching—had to face some cold facts:—The team is now 24 games behind first place behind Philadelphia and St. Louis.

—They're six games behind seventh place St. Louis.

—And except for Philadelphia, every team in the league has an edge over the Tigers in that dismal column of 27 games won, 56 lost. At that, the Athletics have held the Tigers even in 10 games so far.

Big Edge
The ones who really tighten the basement door on the Tigers have been Boston, victor in 12 out of 14 games and Chicago, which beat Detroit in 10 of 13 games.

New York has a 9-4 edge and Cleveland an 11-4 showing. The Tigers, who have never yet finished last, at present have their best chance of ousting St. Louis which has a 6-5 advantage in games won.

Last night against the Senators—who have an 8-6 margin against Detroit—Walt Drope, who tied a major league record of 12 consecutive hits Monday and Tuesday—got two out of four.

He shared honors with left-hander Wight who allowed the Nats just one double and three infield singles. Only one Senator got past second base.

Fifth Win
It was Wight's fifth win against four losses and his third shutout. He's the only Tiger pitcher now above the .500 mark. His three victories in Detroit uniform were shutouts, two against the Browns. His other two wins came as a Boston Red Sox member.

Detroit poured on a four-run attack in the first inning, slamming starter Don Johnson with five hits including a double by Johnny Groth.

Detroit added single runs in the fourth, fifth and seventh innings and kept up the pace with two more in the ninth with the help of Joe Ginsberg's double.

Groth's single and a wild throw by Eddie Yost.

Neil Berry and Groth each turned in three of Detroit's 14 hits in the contest.

The Tigers, trying to improve their unhappy 7-2 record in the current eastern trip, send Hal Newhouser (3-5) against Frank Shea in another contest with the Senators tonight.

Lopez Still Confident Of Indians' Pennant Chances

NEW YORK — (AP) — Manager Al Lopez of the Cleveland Indians remained firm in his conviction today that his team will win the American League pennant despite its double defeat at the hands of the New York Yankees.

Hiding his disappointment over yesterday's double loss which dropped the tribe two and a half games behind the pace-setting Yankees, Lopez insisted his Indians will overtake the to field our regular team this year," Al complained.

Lopez discounted the theory that his brilliant five-man pitching staff was wilting under the heavy burden of working in and out of turn besides taking an occasional relief turn on the mound.

"The pitching has been fine," he said. "The heat hasn't helped but the boys are not tired. They may have looked bad at times but that was due to our poor defense."

Sports Roundup

By JOE FALLS

(For Gayle Talbot)
NEW YORK — (AP) — If you read the sports pages closely last week you probably saw it. If you didn't, you missed a pip.

Speak about luck. Or fate. Just get this:
An unidentified better at Aqueduct wanted two $10 tickets on numbers 10-3 in the daily double. But he got 11-3 by mistake. Noticing this, he decided to keep the tickets, anyway.

So the 11-3 combo won, paying a whopping $1,342.90 for $2. That gave this guy $13,429—and all because a mistake had been made.

Well, this brought to mind another racetrack yarn that J. L. "Fuzzy" Macaskill told up recently. Fuzzy is a teletype operator in the New York office of the AP.

It seems one day Fuzzy was—well, let's let him tell it:
"It's like this. There's an old saying that there's a thousand ways for a guy to lose his money on a nag. This, I think, should top 'em all."

"Horace Stoneham, president of the New York Giants, had this horse, Dry Moon. He was a consistent runner. So this day I put two bucks on his nose and he wins easy, by two or three lengths."

"But after about five minutes his number wasn't posted as the winner. Most of the spectators were mystified because no foul had been committed."

"A short while later, it was announced that Dry Moon was disqualified, disqualified because his jockey, Ted Rice, had died—" evidently of a heart attack—after crossing the finish line.

"You see, he couldn't weigh out, which is one of the rules, so the officials were forced to make the disqualification."

We also heard an amusing tale, this one on golf, at the round-robin tourney in New Rochelle.

This guy—let's call him Joe Blotz—was a red-hot divot digger. Every chance he'd get, he'd sneak away from his house and play 18, 36 and even 54 holes a day.

One morning, his wife—she'll be Mrs. Blotz, of course—decided to go along, and see what this game's all about. Which didn't make Joe too happy.

Anyway, he made the best of it. Since she was with him, he thought he'd show her the fine points of the game.

At the first tee, he showed her how to hold the club, how to stand, how to swing, and just about everything there is to know about hitting a golf ball.

"Just aim for that little red flag down the middle," he told her. "See it?"

It was about 400 yards away.

To which, Mrs. Blotz wound up—and the ball flew down the fairway, straight as an arrow, bounced twice and rolled to a stop just two inches from the cup!

They walked up to it. Joe shaking his head in disbelief, and Mrs. Blotz said:

"Now what do I do?"

"Just tap it in the hole, dear," Joe said.

"Why," she screamed, "didn't you tell me that before!"

Al Lopez

Indians

Yankees in September.

"Nobody realizes better than I that the Yankees are the team to beat for the flag," he said before today's two-night doubleheader ending the five-game series here. "But I feel certain that we can do it."

"All I want to do is stay on the heels of the Yankees until September. If we can do that, we will have a good chance of catching them. You must remember that we finish the season in Cleveland this year. We play all but two of our last 22 games at home while the Yankees play most of theirs during the last month on the road."

Lopez blamed numerous injuries as the reason why the Indians are in second place instead of at the top of the American League.

"At no time have we been able

Indianapolis Hurler Wins Fourth In Row

(By The Associated Press)
Fifth-spot Indianapolis is well-removed from the top of the American Association heap, but the Indians can't blame their hot-pitching Bill Abernathie.

He notched his fourth straight victory last night, setting down third-place St. Paul, 5-1, with a six-hitter.

In last night's only other scheduled game, Minneapolis accumulated seven unearned runs in the second frame and then outlasted Milwaukee, 12-9.

Lapeer and Cheboygan Feuding Over Potter; They Both Claim Him

This year's presidential election—important though it is to the nation—will be secondary issue in two Michigan counties.

For these two counties—Lapeer and Cheboygan—are feuding over the U. S. Senate candidacy of Republican Congressman Charles E. Potter.

It all began when Potter's friends in Cheboygan, where he now lives, put huge banners across all avenues of approach to Cheboygan, proclaimed that Cheboygan was the home of Charlie Potter, hometown boy and next Senator from Michigan.

Word of those signs quickly filtered into Lapeer, where Potter was born and grew up. Tempers flared (goodnatureedly, of course) and, after hurried consultation with some of the key people of Lapeer County, Lapeer Sheriff Clark Gregory took a quarter-page ad in the two Cheboygan newspapers, flinging a mighty challenge squarely into the teeth of Cheboygan Sheriff John A. Garrow. In that ad, which appeared in the Cheboygan Daily Tribune and the Cheboygan Observer this week, Lapeer Sheriff Gregory addressed these pointed remarks to Cheboygan Sheriff Garrow:

"You may claim Charlie Potter as your Congressman now, but we weaned and educated him.

"If Potter gets a bigger percentage of senatorial votes in Lapeer County than in Cheboygan County, I want a big, new American flag for our Court House. If he gets a bigger percentage in Cheboygan County, I'll send you a flag—an American one, or whatever kind that they use in Cheboygan."

No sooner had the Cheboygan sheriff read the challenge than he sat down and not only accepted, but dared his Lapeer county counterpart to go through with the feud.

In a quarter-page ad Sheriff Garrow prepared for publication in the Lapeer County Press, the Cheboygan County law enforcement officer taunted Lapeer in these words:

"Maybe you weaned and educated Charlie Potter. He couldn't help where he was born. But, now he has chosen to live in Cheboygan."

"We didn't hear a word from you folks when Charlie went

PRESIDENT ELECT — Adolpho Ruiz Cordines, backed by President Aleman and the political group that ruled Mexico for 26 years won the presidency of Mexico in the first bloodless balloting in the nation's stormy political history. Although official returns will not be announced until July 20, Cortines' three opponents bitterly admitted defeat.

into the army, and we heard nothing from you when he got out and set out to start life anew without his legs."

Warming to the impending battle for the flag, the Cheboygan sheriff added:

"To hear you Lapeer people talk, you would think Charlie only came up to Cheboygan for a weekend. You folks may turn out a big vote for Charlie, but we aren't going to let you steal our discovery."

So, the feud between Lapeer and Cheboygan Counties is on and Senate candidate Potter is like a spectator at a ping-pong match. He is looking first at Cheboygan, then at Lapeer and back again, happily watching developments. For, no matter which of the two counties has to ante up that American flag at the end, Charlie Potter figures he stands to be the big winner in the feud.

When European glassblowers closed down production during World War II, supremacy in fine handblown glass shifted to American shores.
